EARLY VOTE ON SHANTUNG

Reservation to Peace Treaty Before Senate — Leaders Predict Prompt Action

Reservations Affecting Monroe Doctrine and Domestic Questions Readopted

WASHINGTON, March 3.—The Shantung reservation to the peace treaty was before the senate today with the leaders predicting a prompt vote. The two republican reservations affecting the Monroe Doctrine, and domestic questions were readopted yesterday, the former drawing seven and the latter five more democratic votes than they received in November. Advocates of ratification without reservation were said to feel that adoption of the reservations as proposed by the majority was only a matter of so many roll calls and that a final ratification vote would not be long delayed.

LOCAL COAL SITUATION

Delivery of Hard Coal Uncertain—Soft Coal Supply at Very Low Ebb

Lowell's soft coal situation is more critical today than at any previous time this winter. Plenty of hard coal for domestic consumption is at hand, but delivery is most uncertain and slow because of hard travelling. Not only is the soft fuel supply at a decidedly low ebb, but there is no reason for the assumption that it will be very much improved for some time to come. This does not mean that any industries will be forced to shut down, but many of the textile plants, particularly the smaller corporations, are living a hand-to-mouth existence, with just enough coal coming to them day by day to allow them to carry on 24 hours at a time. There is no possible way to prepare for an emergency nor to meet it should one arise.

WAS FOUND NOT GUILTY OF MANSLAUGHTER

Charged with manslaughter in causing the death of Sylvester Carter, 50, of North Wilmington, who was struck and fatally injured by an automobile on Middlesex street Jan. 1, John E. Burns of this city was found not guilty and discharged by Judge Pennington when his case was called on for continuance in the municipal court today.

An inquest report on Carter's death submitted by Judge Pickman was made public when the case was called. The report states that Carter was crossing Middlesex street near King street on the day of the accident and that he was struck by the left bumper of Burns's machine. Burns sounded his horn when a few yards away from Carter, the report states, and at

BOND DRIVE NEAR QUOTA

Campaigners For Irish Republic Public Fund Are on Their Final Lap

When reports of today's work are received this evening at the Irish bond campaign headquarters in the Howe building it is expected that the total amount will be within $2000 of the city's quota of $60,000. Today's good weather enabled many of the workers, especially in the suburban towns, to cover much territory that hitherto had not been reached and this evening reports should show beneficial results.

There is very little doubt but what the quota for Lowell will be realized by the end of the week, although the campaign officers are warning the 600 workers not to become over-confident until the $60,000 mark is actually reached. With the stores closed tomorrow afternoon one big final Continued to Last Page

HOPING FOR THE BEST

Hot Sun and Warm Rain May Relieve the Transportation Situation

Today's thaw and a weather report which promises rising temperature and probable light rains tomorrow will be instrumental in fixing the local trolley and railroad transportation situation beyond the possibility of another freeze-up, unless an unprecedented spell of winter sets in.

The B. & M. freight yards were tied up as usual early today but had thawed out considerably by noon time, so as to allow for fairly free movement of cars.

The local congestion is still acute enough, however, to cause the railroad to issue the statement today that it will not accept less than car loads, with the exception of perishables, at the Western avenue freight house either tomorrow or Friday.

There is an actual scarcity of empty cars and many shifting engines are out of commission and will be forced to await the attention of an already overworked repair gang.

Trolley cars are running to more distant points on all lines which have been restricted because of the ice. For the first time in many days a Broadway car went as far as Walker street this morning. Andover street and Heavy square routes are being opened up and interurban lines to Tewksbury and Billerica Centre are proceeding beyond yesterday's limits. Disabled cars still disrupt schedules and extra trips during the rush hours will have to be abandoned to a considerable extent until the work of repair can catch up with the demand.

BRICKLAYERS' CONVENTION

Beginning next Monday the bricklayers of the various unions of the city throughout the state will attend an annual convention to be held in Lowell and which will last four days. The men will convene in Hamilton hall in the Odd Fellows building.

On Monday evening the reception to the visiting members will be held at Mayor Thompson and Commissioner Donnelly have promised to be present. The convention will consider the labor question as affecting the bricklayers' trade and other matters of interest. During their stay in Lowell the delegates from other cities will be accommodated at several of the local hotels.

The following bricklayers of the Lowell union are in charge: Arthur Sweeney, John McCabe, Frank Warren, James Kelley and A. Sheehan.

REVOLUTION IN PORTUGAL

Report Workmen There Have Proclaimed a Soviet Republic

Postal, Telegraphic and Other Said to Have Joined Railroad Men

MADRID, March 3.—Reports from the Portuguese frontier today declare that the workmen in Portugal have proclaimed a soviet republic. The postal, telegraphic and other workers are said to have joined the railroad men in the move. The news, which reached here from the border by telephone, has not been confirmed.

A strike of all the employees on the Portuguese railroads was announced in a despatch from Tuy, Spain, on the Portuguese border, Tuesday. The strike began Monday night. The message said it was believed all the postal and telegraphic employees would strike in sympathy with the railroad men who were demanding an increase in wages.

WAGE INCREASE IN CITY DEPARTMENTS

There was little definite information as to what wage increases will be granted city employees at city hall today beyond that which was gleaned from members of the municipal council yesterday. However, one new feature which has come to light is that whatever increase is granted laborers will hold good in all departments and will not vary according to the whims or financial resources of the heads of the departments.

An agreement has been reached by members of the council that the increase to laborers shall be similar in all departments. The basis on which the increase will be granted seems to center around whatever amount Commissioner Dennis A. Murphy feels that he will be able to give the street department men. Mayor Thompson said that he would give the same increase as Mr. Murphy even though he might have to cut down the personnel of the health department forces. Another feature which was brought to light today was that the petition of the laborers in the street department that they be paid for "wet and dry" will not be granted. It will be impossible for the city's finances at the present time to stand the drain that would necessarily be caused by this.

The wages of policemen and firemen have been virtually fixed at $5 per day with corresponding increases for commissioned officers. As far as the police are concerned, the increase will probably mean keeping the personnel of the department down to the lowest number the safety of the city will warrant, according to Mayor Thompson, head of the department. He sees no other way in which the increase can be granted.

CAPE COD CANAL TIUP AFFECTS LOWELL

As the result of a telegram received today by the Lowell chamber of commerce from the Massachusetts chamber of commerce, stressing the serious situation created by the controversy over the Cape Cod canal, William N. Goodell, local president, this noon wired Congressman John Jacob Rogers, Senator Henry Cabot Lodge and Senator David I. Walsh, as follows: "Cape Cod canal situation seriously affects Lowell industries. Barely enough light water coal arriving to keep mills running. Would urge protest against attitude of federal government and seek resumption of control."

Congressman Rogers immediately replied, as follows: "Your telegram received. Massachusetts delegation in congress planning to call in a body upon Secretary of War Baker today or tomorrow on Cape Cod canal matter. I assure you of my hearty co-operation in this connection."

ANOTHER ROW AT SOLDIER HEARING

Hale Declares d'Olier's Statements "Erroneous and Should Be Contradicted"

Storm of Protest Follows—Plan Graduate Income Tax To Provide Bonus

WASHINGTON, March 3.—Another row occurred today at hearings before the house ways and means committee on soldier relief measures. It came when Edward H. Hale, representing veterans of foreign wars, told the committee that statements made yesterday by Franklin d'Olier, commander of the American Legion, were "erroneous and should be contradicted."

A storm of protest resulted, but Chairman Fordney restored quiet by warning that unless order could be maintained, "we will quit these hearings."

Representative Treadway, Massachusetts, said the committee should not permit criticism of the American Legion, adding that "evident rivalry exists between various associations."

"Criticism must be permitted if we get anywhere," interjected Representative Garner, Texas.

After five minutes of wrangling among members, during which several started to leave, Chairman Fordney ruled that witnesses should not criticize other organizations.

Hale urged passage of a bill authorizing relief to discharged service men at the rate of $30 a month instead of $50, with an additional grant of $100 to those who served overseas. He also favored passage of the Morgan bill, which would give service men the option of selecting homesteads.

"How could the money be raised for this bonus?" asked Representative Kitchin, Democrat, North Carolina. "There is a public debt of 26 billion dollars now."

"Our plan," said Hale, "would be to tax all incomes above $50,000 at the rate of 2 per cent, graduating that until 7 per cent would be charged on incomes above $1,000,000. This would provide $200,000,000, according to the internal revenue bureau."

"Some of the alleged economies practiced by this congress are a crime," the witness said, whereupon Mr. Kitchin remarked that "the economy of this republican congress surely is a crime."

Hale said "nip appreciation and nothing more," had been extended to discharged soldiers.

"These men," he declared, "have been turned back to civilian life with 60 pieces of silver and they have been brought face to face with the ingratitude of the republic. The only wonder is that they have stood so long the apathetic attitude of congress."

Members of congress received back pay when they were discharged from the army and returned to the house, he said, adding that others were equally as deserving as ex-soldier congressmen.

MILLARD F. WOOD DEAD

Well Known Jeweler Dies Suddenly at His Home in Chestnut Street

Millard F. Wood, for more than 40 years a merchant jeweler in this city and since 1903 the proprietor of the store in Merrimack street which bears his name, died suddenly today at his home, 103 Chestnut street. His age was 69 years.

Although in failing health since last September, Mr. Wood had attended to his business off and on up until quite recently, although spending only an hour or two in the store on each occasion.

For many years he was associated in the jewelry business with his brother, George H. Wood, leaving the partnership 17 years ago to conduct a store of his own. He was born in Draught, but lived practically his entire life in Lowell, having no other business interests except the jewelry trade. He was a member of the board of directors of the Lowell Retail Jewelers' association and a former treasurer. He was a member of Kilmanning lodge, A. F. and A. M. and one of the board of deacons of the First Congregational church.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mary E. Wood; one daughter, Vera M.; a sister, Elizabeth E. Wood of Draught, and a brother, George H., of this city.

Nineteen Cases Reported This Forenoon—Two Deaths From Pneumonia

Influenza has not yet taken its departure from Lowell judging from the report of cases reported at the office of the board of health this forenoon today. No less than 19 cases had been reported and two deaths from pneumonia.

The percentage of mortality in the present epidemic in relation to the total number of cases has up to date been 3.4 while in the 1918 epidemic it was 5.2.

The total number of cases reported yesterday was 13 with two deaths from pneumonia.

CLEARING ANDOVER STREET CARLINE

Men of Tewksbury and outer Andover street joined forces with regular truckmen of the Bay State division again today for the job of removing several feet of snow and a thick layer of ice from the car line which is supposed to serve that section of the city as far as the foot of North Tewksbury hill. A score of volunteers this forenoon had their ranks increased 50 per cent. after dinner by men from the hill who were not able to leave farm duties during the morning hours and before nightfall the rails will be open to a point well beyond Clark road.

Once before this winter the men of this district have answered a volunteer call and subsequently opened the line as far as the blacksmith shop and the call sent out yesterday by Edward B. Trull and others met with hearty response today. The Bay State sent a pick and shovel crew along with a big plow and the work began in earnest at the turnout just beyond Wentworth avenue. At 12 o'clock there was open rail several hundred yards beyond Daniels street.

A road scraper was first sent over the route, leaving a layer of ice about four inches thick. Monday's thaw had spread a miniature lake over the track in the hollow and ice, which had formed there extended to a depth of six and seven inches. This was tackled first.

The warm sun at mid-day was a great asset and this afternoon the progress made was uncommonly rapid. It is probable that the work will be continued tomorrow unless the city line is reached tonight.

Takes Trip in Closed Car—Photographers Are Barred by the Police

WASHINGTON, March 3.—President Wilson went for a motor ride today, leaving the White House grounds for the first time since he was ordered to bed last October by Rear Admiral Grayson, a "very sick man."

The president was accompanied by Mrs. Wilson, Dr. Grayson and secret service men, and took a spin around the "speedway" along the Potomac. A closed car was used, and the party left through the southwest gate. Photographers who had waited several weeks for the president's reappearance in public, were prohibited by the police from taking photographs.

He made a previous confession to the police at the time of his arrest, several weeks ago. Sanmarco said he intended to wound another patrolman, Di Franco, who was also in the hall, but someone hit his arm as he fired, and the bullet struck Clancy.

CITY COUNCIL ACTS ON ANNUAL BUDGET

The first formal step toward securing the funds called for by the 1920 budget was taken this morning when the municipal council voted to adopt an order appropriating $2,458,250 to meet fixed charges and current expenses for the year 1920.

The next step will be to pass an order instructing the assessors to raise this amount of money by taxation. This was not done at this morning's meeting as expected, but will probably be passed within a few days.

The council also instructed the city clerk to notify the officers of Lowell post of the American Legion that it is impossible at the present time for the city to appropriate $2500 for the legion's celebration of Memorial day inasmuch as the state legislature has not yet passed the bill giving this authority. When the bill is passed it is probable that the money will be appropriated, as recently requested by the legion men.

Meeting in Detail

The meeting was called at 11 o'clock with all members present. The city solicitor submitted an opinion to the effect that the city had no authority to appropriate $2500 for the celebration of Memorial day by the American legion, as requested by the local post, inasmuch as the legislature had not yet voted to give such authority to cities and towns.

Mayor Thompson said that the legion now has a bill in the legislature giving this authority, but until this is passed the city council could take no action.

It was finally voted to instruct the city clerk to send a copy of the solicitor's opinion to the local post of the legion.

A bill of $715 from G. C. Prince for filing cases for the city clerk's office was approved.

The council then passed the order appropriating $2,458,250 to meet fixed charges and current expenses for the year 1920.

"DIG-OUT" CAMPAIGN

Storekeepers, Mill Men and Others Believe in Fullest Co-operation

According to opinions expressed by many public-spirited citizens, the second "dig-out" campaign suggested by Mayor Thompson for tomorrow afternoon should be such a success as to rival any similar undertaking of other cities. One other thing that should aid in the work of clearing the streets is that most of the stores of the city will be closed for the afternoon.

The proposition made by many individuals is that each householder and merchant see to it that walks, gutters and catch basins in the vicinity of his property are cleared.

The several department stores of the city are ready to co-operate in any way that is practical for them, but they all state that up until last night they had not been approached on the subject in regard to specific plans. Their only notification of the origin of any such plan was through the newspaper columns.

In view of that condition they have been unable to decide as to what steps should be taken.

Mr. Townes, assistant manager of the Chaffin company, claimed the fault previously was that the appeal for men was not carefully planned, the result being that the number who turned out was not sufficient. "Of course, the last campaign was organized in a hurry," he said, "and possibly for that reason it lacked the personal appeal. A personal and specific request should be made to all merchants and then they would have time to call a meeting of their men to urge them to remain on duty Thursday afternoon with picks and shovels. If this was done the factories would also have opportunity to enlist some of their men for Saturday afternoon. The business streets should be cleared first, because autos continue to go in the tracks and that helps up car schedules."

Agent Mitchell, of the Massachusetts mills, proffered the suggestion that more high school boys be called out. "It was one of the remarkable incidents of the last dig-out," he said, "that the boys who are able to stand the strain much better than some of the old men who showed city spirit enough to go out, did not appear. The number of men who did work surely was no commendation for the spirit of Lowell, down in Worcester thousands of men and boys turned out and that city is not much larger than Lowell. The Massachusetts corporation sent 25 men with trucks and equipment to help the last time. The mills will run Thursday afternoon and we may not be able to loan any men. The stores now have their chance to do their part."

Postmaster Meehan said, "The only correct thing to do is to clear the gutters and sewers. The sun must clear the roads, unless four or five hundred men are put to work right away and kept at the job until it is completed. This would add to the tax rate, but unless the public co-operates it may have to be done. The 'dig-out' campaign, however, should not be restricted to any particular day, but held in force at any time that is convenient for shovellers, and let everyone tend to his own street. It would be impossible to take away all the snow and ice in the street. All that can be done in many places is to shovel the ice from the walks into the middle of the street and attend to the sewers and gutters."

Mr. Blessington, superintendent of streets, claimed that there is still a great deal more work even where the last crowd of men shovelled, because they cleared only one side of the streets and left the other side, in many cases, banked high with snow. "The city men are ready to turn out" for the business section, but their work may be extended to residential districts if they meet any kind of co-operation. That the clogged streets have not been cleared is no fault of the street department, for we are very short of men. If the dig-out is started the aim should be to clear all the streets."

Mr. Conway, of the Conway Transfer company, stated that everyone should work for himself, including the storekeepers. He said that he sent two of his sleds up to his own street last time and on Thursday also, will send two there. He claimed that no attempt should be made to remove all the ice, because that would leave the bare pavement in places as obstruction to traffic, as has been done already in some sections. "The sewers and gutters are what should be tackled by any squad of men, and not the banks of snow. It would be foolish to think of removing them."

The men at the American Express depot declared that it was not wise to start the campaign until the sun had softened up the ice. Then the caked snow could be dug up and would not have to be chipped off, as must be done in cold weather. According to express teamsters, some of the streets

When asked about the co-operation of the foreign population, Miss Hutton of the International Institute, claimed that they would help if they were approached in the proper way, but that they could not be expected to leave their work on Thursday afternoon. "Those who are in charge of the dig-out activity," she said, "should ask the foreign societies and clubs to manage the campaign among the foreign colonies. If they have not done it already, and if impressed with the importance of it, the foreigners will accede to any request to dig out around their own streets during the time they are not working."

The several undertakers of the city are ready to take a hand themselves and hope to get many volunteers, especially lot owners, to open up the roads in the cemeteries. One of the undertakers suggested that the big scraper owned by the city be put to work on the cemetery roads. Another has issued a call for volunteers with shovels to meet at his shop. He will take them from there to the cemetery in his autos. The roads to the cemeteries are so bad that sometimes a casket has to be transferred from the hearse to an ordinary pug before it can be conveyed to its proper place.

The trend of opinion favors that every one "dig-out" himself, and if that is done by all merchants and householders, Lowell need have no fear of damage resulting from the melting of snow and ice.

WOULD REPEAL THE FISH LICENSE LAW

(Special to The Sun.)

STATE HOUSE, Boston, March 3.—Repeal of the law requiring licenses for the right to fish was favored here today on the ground that this action would have been taken by the Pilgrim fathers if the question were put up to them.

George A. Garside, former member of the commission on fisheries and game, in favor of the repeal legislation, declared that the early colonists were in favor of free "fishing, hunting and fishing" because of the drastic laws on the subject in England, where common people were not allowed to trespass upon the game preserves of the aristocracy.

"The right of the people to fish upon the great ponds of the state has been preserved to them largely because of the action of the early law-makers of the commonwealth in view of the stringent regulations in the old countries," said Mr. Garside. "When the legislature changed the law whereby persons had to pay for the right of using their own ponds and rivers then an injustice was done which should not be allowed to continue."

Mr. Garside declared there is no legitimate reason for the licensing of fishermen, although there is some in the case of hunters. In the latter instance, he said, the license serves to keep a check on gunners, having dangerous weapons in their possession. Such a precaution, he believed, is not necessary in the case of fishermen.

In the matter of conservation Mr. Garside contended there is no need for this, there being a plentiful supply of all kinds of fish raised by the state, other than trout.

"BIG FOUR" SLATE

WASHINGTON, March 3.—Ex-Gov. Samuel W. McCall, in a statement here yesterday, warned the republicans of Massachusetts against "placing a machine-made ticket" in the primary elections for delegates-at-large to the national convention.

Mr. McCall's principal criticism was leveled at the "big four" slate, which is composed of Senator Lodge, ex-Senator Crane, Speaker Gillett and Edward A. Thurlston, but he inferentially criticized the managers of the Wood campaign in the Bay State for agreeing to accept the four men named in this group without a protest.

Of course you must give this wonderful remedy a chance. Don't think you can be absolutely cured after taking two doses. All you have to do is follow directions and you will find that Goldine will give absolute satisfaction. Adv.

ARE YOUR KIDNEYS WEAK?

Thousands of Men and Women Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It

Most people do not realize the alarming increase and remarkable prevalence of kidney disease. While kidney disorders are among the most common diseases that prevail, they are almost the last recognized by patients, who usually content themselves with doctoring the effects, while the original disease constantly undermines the system.

Weak kidneys may cause lumbago, rheumatism, catarrh of the bladder, pain or dull ache in the back, joints or muscles, at times have headache or indigestion, as time passes you may have a sallow complexion, puffy or dark circles under the eyes, sometimes feel as though you had heart trouble, may have plenty of ambition but no strength, get weak and lose flesh.

If such conditions are permitted to continue, serious results are sure to follow; Kidney Trouble in its very worst form may steal upon you.

If you feel that your kidneys are the cause of your sickness or run down condition, begin taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the famous kidney, liver and bladder medicine, because as soon as your kidneys are well, they will help the other organs to health.

If you are already convinced that Swamp-Root is what you need, you can purchase the regular medium and large size bottles at all drug stores. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., which you will find on every bottle.

SPECIAL NOTE—You may obtain a sample size bottle of Swamp-Root by enclosing ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. They will also send you a book of valuable information, containing many of the thousands of grateful letters received from men and women who say they found Swamp-Root to be just the remedy needed in kidney, liver and bladder troubles. The value and success of Swamp-Root are so well known that our readers are advised to send for a sample size bottle. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. Be sure to say you read this offer in The Lowell Sun.—Adv.

CHIFFON HAT FOR SUMMER SUNSHINE

BY CORA MOORE.
New York's Fashion Authority
NEW YORK, March — When small,

trim hats of spring lose their charm as the days lengthen into real summer, soft, frilly hats will be ready to take their place, as they have every summer in memory. This year designers are favoring chiffons and tulle with brims drooping to shade the eyes. Constance Binney wears a large hat of shell-pink chiffon which illustrates the mode. Low over the eyes, and flaring slightly higher in the back, the hat is trimmed only with a band of blue gros-grain ribbon of medium width at the base of the crown, and one up-standing conventional blue flower at the side of the front. The crown is shirred in upon cords at intervals.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

(By Theatres' Own Press Agents)

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Youth and high spirits are the pre-dominating notes in the Thomas H. Ince production, "Mary's Ankle," which is coming to the Merrimack Square theatre for three days commencing tomorrow. Douglas MacLean and Doris May, who made such an auspicious debut as co-stars in "Twenty-Three and a Half Hours' Leave," are the featured players. The picture is an adaptation of Gray Tully's hilarious stage play of the same name.

The other feature for Thursday, Friday and Saturday is Irene Castle, the famous dancing star, in "The Amateur Wife," one of her most successful productions. The photoplay, which was adapted from a magazine story by Nalbro Bartley, concerns a young French convict girl who comes to America to live with her mother, a musical comedy queen and is very interesting.

A new comedy and the News Electrical round out the bill. "The Confession," Hal Rosson's famous London drama,

THE OWL THEATRE

The Maryland Singers, appearing at the B. M. Keith Theatre, this week, are presenting not alone one of the prettiest acts of the season, but one which is filled with many of the mel-lowest of old southern melodies. The band-ol of the company, Charles Frink, strains out the old songs specially well. J. C. Nugent is a pas-sive sort of monologist who arouses a lot of interest. No more entertaining pair than Thomas F. Swift and Mary H. Kelley can be found. Their latest comedy skit, "Gum Drops," is a de-lightfully breezy affair. And when it comes to clowning there are no one quite equal Bert Melrose? His drop from the flies to the stage is very funny. Other acts on the bill are: Florence Henry & Co., Wheeler & Pot-ter, and the Hurleys.

THE OWL THEATRE

Today's performances are the last for the screen classic, "A Tale of Two Cities," by Charles Dickens now play-ing the Owl Theatre. With William Farnum as the star and William Fox as the producer it is needless to say that it is one of the season's artistic literary sensations. No expense was spared in cast and settings or loca-tions for the production and the story has been carefully followed. School children will find it big help in their study of the author's work. It will be shown at 2:30, 5:30 and 9 p. m. to-day. A pleasing program of incidental music has been arranged by Mr. Hamrick, the leader of the orchestra. Nor is this all, don't overlook the added attraction, Henry H. Walthall, the star of "Birth of a Nation," in the "Long Arm of Manister," from the novel by E. Phillips Oppenheim. Two big books, two big stars, Farnum and Walthall, both seven reel pro-duc-tions and a Fox sunshine comedy, "Hungry Lions and Tender Hearts," in two parts. Make a resolution now, don't miss this bill today to do so will be to regret it. The perfor-mances are continuous and night patrons arriving by 7:25 will see the entire show.

BOOZE! SO NEAR AND YET SO FAR

WASHINGTON, March — Here's a little manual entitled "First Aid to the Thirsty." It is compiled from the facts supplied by Prohibition Commissioner Kramer, the Prohibition Repeal as-sociation officials and the Anti-Saloon League of America.

Cuba—The largest liquor reservoir near the "Great American Desert." Saloons are open day and night, seven days and seven nights a week. Drink-ers cost about twice as much as they did in the United States before the war and hotel rooms cost $15 a day.

Bermuda—Not so lively as Cuba, but only three days from New York. No laws against intoxication.

Quebec—The only damp spot in Can-ada. Lower California—Many Mexican states are dry, but Lower California is ruled by a man who doesn't believe in prohibition. It isn't expensive and they have all kinds of drinks here.

Central America—Plenty. South America—No Sunday closing except in Bolivia and in Chile, where liquor cannot be sold between mid-night and 6 a. m. Cuban state chemists watch breweries and distilleries to guarantee the purity of the output. Porvian bars are closed both Satur-days and Sundays.

SOUTH AFRICA HAS INDUSTRIAL PEACE

By EDWARD M. THIERRY
With Smithsonian-Universal African Expedition

JOHANNESBURG—Capital in South Africa either is so lucky in dealing with labor that it doesn't need brains, or else so brainy it doesn't need luck. With the rest of the world stewing in labor troubles, South Africa has in-dustrial peace.

Big industry, of which gold mining and diamond mining are greatest, have been practically untouched by in-labor unrest.

What would you do, Mr. Employer, if you had 900 employees and you only had to pay 100 of them an average of $7.50 a day and the other 800 only had to be paid 50 to 75 cents a day and provided with food and lodging cost-ing only 12 to 15 cents a day?

That's the labor situation in South Africa. Yet, capital is gloomy. Most of the agitation now going on comes, not from labor, but from capital. There has been a government inquiry into the low-grade labor question.

Mine-owners, pleading that the cost of gold production in low-grade mines yielding a low percentage of gold per-ton has gone up so high, are trying to have the color bar lifted.

The color bar is a law prohibiting natives from holding jobs as gang-bosses or foremen in mines or jobs re-quiring skill.

The white man in the mines owes his position to monopoly. His task is to direct the labor of his gang of natives who are debarr'd by law from com-pelling with him, however capable they may be—and sometimes are.

White trouble does not appear, in-situation declares that the artificial position created by the fact that the color of a man's skin and not his ef-ficiency decides whether he shall be paid $7.50 a day—even as high as $15 a day—or half a dollar a day, with meager food and lodging, is a condi-tion that cannot be permanent.

Mine operators want to raise the col-or bar, but they don't think much of the idea of raising the natives to the white wage standard.

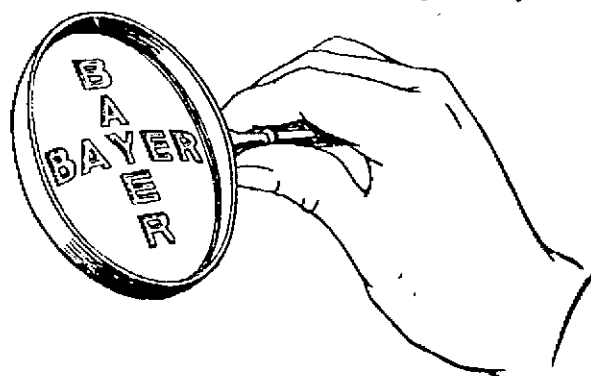

Capital, in support of the latter cap-tion, points to a report of the econ-omic commission that with pay at only $2.75 a day, 41 out of 52 gold mines would have to shut down and the re-maining 11 would operate at very re-duced profits.

Near Valdosta, Ga., there is a lake three miles long and three-quarters of a mile wide, with an average depth of 12 feet, which disappears every three or four years, and then comes back again.

Druggists also sell larger pack-ages. Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manu-facture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid.

LEAGUE COUNCIL TO MEET IN PARIS

PARIS, March 2. French wireless service.—The League of Nations council will hold its next meeting in Paris on March 11. Organization of the commission which is to investigate conditions in Russia will be taken up, it is understood.

The first number of the official organ of the League of Nations has just been issued. This brochure contains the covenant of the league, a list of the nations which have already ratified the treaty of Versailles, the letters of adherence to the covenant from the states invited to join and the process verbal of the first session of the league council, besides that of the international labor council's first meeting. The booklet, which was printed in London, is in both French and English.

BIG STRIKE IN SOUTH AFRICA SETTLED

JOHANNESBURG, Union of South Africa, March 3.—The strike among the native workers in the Crown Gold mines, in the Rand, which has been in progress for some time, has been settled. There had been complaint among the men of unjust treatment because of political opinions, but the executive body of the miners has expressed itself as satisfied that there will be difficulty on this account in the future.

During the strike, which gave signs late last week of beginning to collapse, thousands of the men returning to their work, there was no disorder up to Sunday, when a contingent of mounted policemen was forced to charge a crowd in rescuing two policemen who had been stoned by natives. Later stones were thrown at a party of whites on their way to a cemetery, this resulting in a fight in which two natives were killed. The troubles were finally put to an end by patrols.

N. Y. PAYS $3,000,000 TO REMOVE SNOW

NEW YORK, March 3.—Street Cleaning Commissioner MacStay announced today that although nearly $3,000,000 has been spent in removing snow that fell a month ago, six hundred miles of streets in outlying sections of the city have not been cleared, while 400 miles in Manhattan, Brooklyn and the Bronx have not been entirely cleared. Street cars are still tied up in parts of Manhattan and Brooklyn. At least 50 miles of streets in congested portions of the city have not even been opened. MacStay estimated that it would take a month more to complete the removal of snow unless the weather should be unusually warm.

DRY AGENTS WIN OUT

NEW YORK, March 3.—Government agents were victorious in the first pitched battle in New York resulting from enforcement of the prohibition law, and today the victors triumphantly turned over to the customs authorities 537 bottles of cognac seized aboard the Italian steamship President Wilson, beset on all hands by a sulen crew, who switched off the lights far down in the ship's interior and smashed bottles by flinging heavy pieces of iron, a half dozen men from the office of Thomas E. Rush, inspector of the port finally bore the liquor off the ship.

FIGHT TO DEPRIVE EX-KAISER OF FORTUNE

BERLIN, Tuesday, March 2.—The fight to deprive the former emperor of his properties and fortune began in earnest today, when the motion of the majority socialists of the diet to refer the issue to the national assembly precipitated an acrimonious debate. The majority socialists voted with the independents in denunciation of the former ruler, in an effort to defeat the proposed settlement by accomplishing the confiscation of the Hohenzollern possessions. This would be done through constitutional amendment, voting the former emperor a fixed sum for his maintenance.

Deputy Graef, a majority socialist, declared that the ex-ruler had failed to live up to the historic precedents of his race. He had not died at the head of his troops. He chose instead, the deputy continued, a midnight flight to Holland, where "he is now promanaging and sawing wood."

The deputy expressed doubt as to whether the former emperor had subscribed to war loans, as had been claimed, while his claim that he had been the guardian of peace, had been disproved by his continuous rattling of the sword and proclamations of the mailed fist.

The democrats and the clericals joined in voting for the government's measure, providing that the settlement be referred to the committee of judiciary.

The judiciary committee now takes the bill under advisement and conferences are expected to last many weeks.

The motion of the majority socialists providing for action by the national assembly has been temporarily tabled.

SALE OF FENWAY PARK POSTPONED

BOSTON, March 3.—Sale at auction of Fenway Park, home grounds of the Boston American League Baseball club, advertised for today, was postponed a week as a result of court proceedings brought by President H. H. Frazee. Subsequently Frazee said that his differences with former President J. P. Lannin probably would be settled out of court within a day or two.

Lannin claims that President Frazee has failed to pay a note of $262,000 given as part payment for the club. When Frazee was heard in court today on a bill in equity to prevent the sale of the grounds to satisfy this claim, the court suggested the postponement of the sale, and Frazee agreed to deposit $250,000 with the court as security.

President Frazee disclaimed as unfounded rumors that a deal for sale of the club to local interests was pending.

The Central Trades and Labor council of Reno and Sparks, Nev., have voted to stop making wage demands and to concentrate their future efforts on the reduction of living costs.

Jewett's Bill Gets Third Reading—Final Reading on Corbett Bill

(Special to The Sun)
STATE HOUSE, Boston, March 3.—The Jewett bill providing for the appointment of a bi-partisan election commission was ordered to a third reading in the house yesterday afternoon without debate or opposition.

The senate gave a final reading, without opposition, to the Corbett bill providing that chauffeurs in the police department shall have the same rights as to retirement that are allowed to others of the department.

The senate refused to reject resolutions favoring the repeal of restrictions on the freedom of speech, freedom of the press and the right of free assembly, and apparently indicated its purpose to adopt the resolutions today.

Senator Finkel of Boston, sponsor for the resolutions, agreed to eliminate certain phraseology to which the committee on federal relations had objected, and with the objectionable language eliminated the committee will not oppose the resolutions further.

In the form of their probable adoption, the resolutions read:

"Resolved, that in view of the ratification of the peace treaty by a majority of the allied countries and the virtual ending of the great war, so happily consummated, the general court declares its belief that the time has now come for the repeal and removal of all restrictions imposed for the duration of the war on the freedom of speech, the freedom of the press and the right of the people peaceably to assemble."

The words to be eliminated follow immediately after the word "people," without punctuation. They are:

"Freely for such purposes as they desire; and the restoration to the sovereign people of all their traditional Anglo-Saxon liberties, the restraint of which was temporarily necessitated by reason of the exigencies of the great war."

"Resolved, that the general court herewith proclaims and records itself to be firmly of the opinion that complete restoration of such liberties will do much to quiet the prevailing unrest and discontent."

By a vote of 21 to 57, the house reused to substitute for an adverse committee report a bill to regulate further the cold storage of eggs. Mr. Glazier of Hudson, opposing the bill, quoted officials of the state department of health as having said that eggs properly frozen will keep well for three or four years.

The senate accepted adverse reports on bills providing that children in the public schools be given instruction in accident prevention, and also on the bill providing that the continuation school law, adopted in many cities last fall, shall not become operative for two years.

Another adverse report accepted in the senate was that on the bill requiring private corporations to pension on half pay any employee after 25 years of continuous service.

The committee on constitutional amendments filed adverse reports on proposed amendments of the constitution providing for biennial sessions of the general court; for regulation of the right to strike; for limitation of the erection of buildings according to their use or construction; and that all proposed amendments of the federal constitution be submitted to the people before ratification by the legislature.

LOWELL TEACHERS HOLD ANNUAL MEETING

The censorship committee of the Lowell Teachers' organization submitted its report through Miss Usher, yesterday, at the annual meeting of the organization held in high school hall. Officers and directors for the coming year were elected and other business was transacted.

Miss Provencher spoke of the difficulty of keeping school children from the moving picture theatres. In localities such as the Green school where there are two picture houses she said that it was very hard to restrain the pupils from staying away from school and attending the show. She said that public opinion will be turned in favor of picture censorship by a publicity campaign in the near future.

Miss Lawrence stated that the chamber of commerce had sought the advice of the organization on many occasions, and when it was asked in regard to the city charter, Mr. Bennett, the first vice-president, who represents the teachers in the chamber of commerce, secured the postponement of the discussion.

Changes were made in the constitution of the organization. The meetings will be held on the second Wednesday of each month, and there will be a regular meeting in April. The membership fee was raised from $1 to $2.

The officers for 1920 are: Miss Caroline Downey, president; William Bennett and Miss Fannie H. Murphy, vice-presidents; Miss Katherine Kelly secretary; Miss Ella M. Breene, treasurer; and Miss Genevieve Lawrence, Miss Helene R. Abels, Miss Lelaheur, Miss Anna T. McCarroll; Miss Elizabeth H. Seeds and Miss Marion Simpson, on the board of directors.

The meeting also set apart space in the records of the organization for memorials to the deceased members: James L. Mellon, Miss Gertrude Brady, Miss Nellie T. O'Grady and Miss Ethel Cleaves.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

The following have been recently appointed as members of the executive committee of the local post of the American Legion: Charles A. Stevens, 317 Wilder street; Arthur Moran, 31 East Pine street; John J. Cullen, 12 Loring street; Stephen C. Garrity, 102 Bowers street; Frederick A. Estes, 715 Westford street; Stephen Kearney, city engineer; Robert Givlan, 215 Salem street; Eli B. Hart, 125 Cross street; James P. McCready, 128 Bowers street; Luther W. Faulkner, Fairmount street; Joseph Christian, 69 Ludlam street; Rev. William T. Mahan, Sacred Heart church.

Jury Disagrees

A short time later the foreman sent word that the jury had been unable to agree and after receiving the report informally, Judge Dunn announced that court was suspended until 10 a. m., at which time the jury was dismissed.

Burke and Bartley had long been friends, but quarreled shortly before the latter's death over liquor smuggling operations in which they had been engaged and which were financed with funds Burke had obtained as tax collector.

During the trial, it was reported that Burke, if acquitted would be re-arrested on charges of liquor smuggling, and Deputy United States Marshal Eugene Harmon remained about

Bartley was shot twice through the head in the woods, about three miles north of Jackman, on the night of Oct. 15. His body was found by one of his brothers and other searchers three days later. It was hidden in a cave formed by trees blown down in some storm. Burke with whom he was last seen as they left the village

Extensive liquor smuggling operations across the Canadian border a dozen miles north of Jackman, in an automobile at 8.15 that night and who an hour later claimed to the county medical examiner summoned to dress a wound in his leg that Bartley had shot him during a quarrel in front of Burke's residence, was suspected as soon as the body was located.

His formal arrest, however, did not take place until two weeks later, when he had recovered from his wound sufficiently to get out of doors and the county officials made a thorough investigation of all reports and theories a dozen miles north of Jackman.

In which the two men had been engaged for 18 months according to Burke's statements on the witness stand, involved a shortage of two or three thousand dollars in his accounts as tax collector.

Bartley's notes which Burke said he held to cover the amount of his share of the loss when 240 cases of whiskey were stolen and which the state's attorneys claimed were forged, were given as a motive for taking Bartley's life.

HIGHEST SALARIED WOMAN IN AMERICAN BUSINESS

LIFE GIVES SIX RULES FOR WINNING SUCCESS

SIX REQUISITES OF SUCCESS

- I. Pick your job.
- II. Learn everything possible connected with it.

NEW YORK, March 3.—High above Times square, near Forty-second and Broadway, the Bush Terminal building raises its slender height, outdistancing all its sister buildings.

Controls Destinies

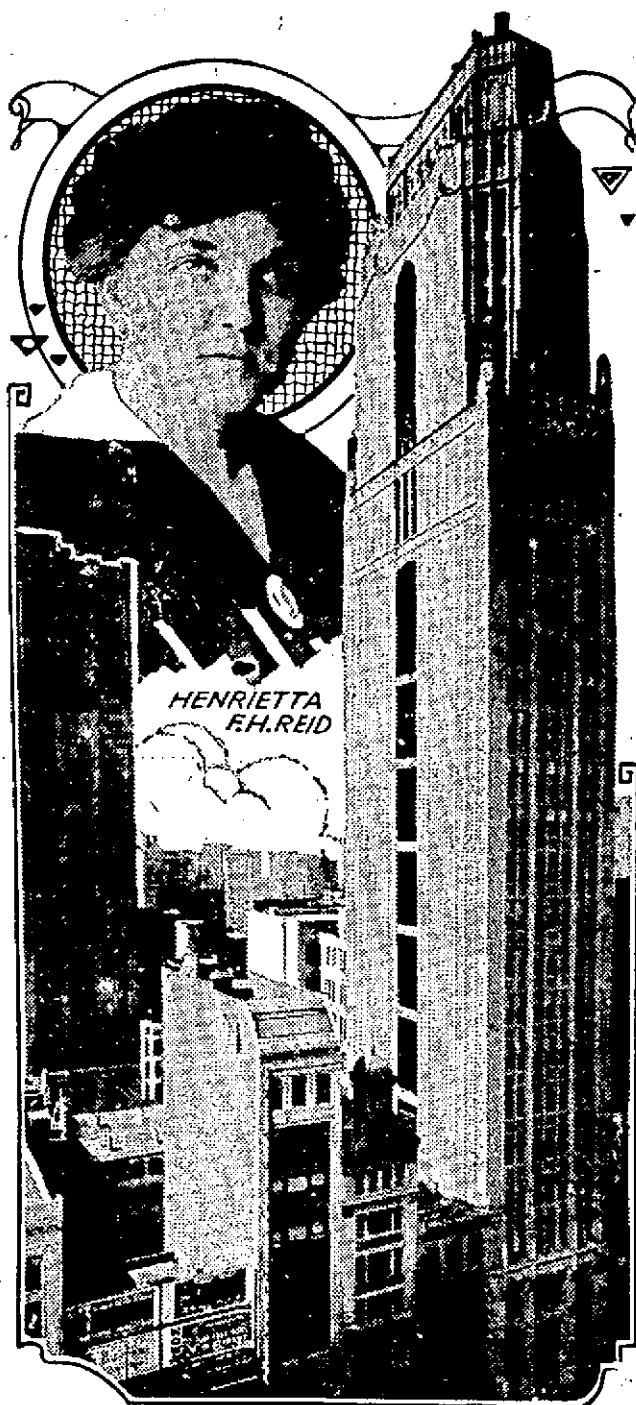

At a well-lighted desk in an office on the twenty-third floor sits the moving spirit not only of the building, but of the great company which the building symbolizes—Henrietta F. H. Reid, America's highest-salaried executive, otherwise assistant to the president of the Bush Terminal Company. Miss Reid it is who controls the business destinies of some 1,000 people who work under her guidance.

To say Miss Reid is a success is to make a pitifully inadequate expression of her swift, consistent rise from the humblest of humble newspaper-reporters to her position as highest-salaried woman executive in America—the real heart and soul of a $2,900,000 enterprise.

Time to Be Friendly

One might expect to find in that richly furnished, cozy, unbusiness-like office on the twenty-third floor a woman wearing mannish clothes, her hair done tightly on her head, and brusque, "business" mannerism. Not so. Instead is found a dignified but womanly woman, her feminine charms enhanced by an unusual cape-like garment that keeps her costly clothes fresh and clean, a toque cap on her head and a friendly hand and a hospitable smile ready to greet her visitor.

And at once he has the feeling that Miss Reid, in spite of her distinction, her business, and the world of care that rests on her shoulders is as much

The Bush Terminal Building and Miss Reid, its "heart and soul."

Interested in him, whoever he may be, as he is in her. And therein lies the secret of her success—for through her interest in people and not things, she has made the Bush Terminal Co. the living, vital thing that it is.

Requisite For Success

With a quickness that leaves no doubt as to her decided opinions, Miss Reid answers the query as to what she considers the six requisites for the success of a woman in business:

"First, I should say a requisite to success is picking the thing you are best suited to do. So many girls read a magazine story and then apply for a place as private detective when they know nothing of the qualifications for that place.

"Second, learn everything that can possibly be connected with the place you have, or the place you want. If you go to a school to train you for that work, go to the school as you would go to work—decidedly in earnest.

"Third, learn too ahead and gain most important factor in real success.

"Fourth, learn to delegate details to other people and don't try to do everything yourself. Most women fail because they try to do a 100 per cent. job themselves, instead of allowing others to do things in a more efficient way.

"Fifth, keep your head up, a smile on your face, and don't rush. Mad rushing about and habitual business is the worst thing in the world to destroy real efficiency.

"Sixth, don't try to be a man. Just be a woman and be proud of it, because women are capable of every mental energy that men are."

Not "Snap" Judgments

It was Miss Reid's ability to answer questions quickly and decisively that first attracted Irving T. Bush and led him to select Miss Reid as his assistant.

When she was first called in to counsel those who control the destinies of the Bush Terminal Co., there were those who were inclined to disagree with what they called her "snap judgments." But those snap judgments were so unfailingly right that they soon were so unfailingly right that they soon about what she said before she said it, but thought like lightning.

THE CHARTER QUESTION

Proposed New Charter Read and Discussed at Chamber of Commerce Meeting

Three hundred members of the Lowell chamber of commerce heard Representative Thomas J. Corbett read his new charter bill in Memorial hall last evening and during a discussion hour which followed a number of men rose to interrogate the author of the measure as to the intent of this and that section and in two or three instances amendments were offered and graciously accepted by Mr. Corbett.

It was not intended by the chamber when planning the meeting that a discussion of the charter pro and con should occur. It was the belief that many people in the city did not thoroughly understand the proposed charter and the assembly was for educational purposes only. No action was taken or any records kept of the progress of the meeting.

Despite the wish to steer clear of criticism of the present charter and lay the entire stress of the meeting upon a careful consideration of the instrument which Rep. Corbett has designed to supplant the governing code now in use, questions opened up avenues of debate which were painted with a distinct political color, although the discussion was free from personalities.

It is safe to say that the meeting was most profitable and that those in attendance left the hall considerably enlightened upon the charter bill in question.

President William N. Goodell presided and following a brief outline of the purpose of the assembly, introduced Rep. Corbett as the principal speaker. The latter took up the bill, section by section, and there until he had finished. Each man and the two women present had a copy of the bill.

A Home Treatment for Asthma

Makes Breathing Easy

A Worcester, Mass., doctor has suggested the following simple, harmless and inexpensive home treatment for bronchial asthma, chronic bronchitis and coughs and colds which threaten to affect the lungs.

At Lowell Pharmacy and Liggett's or any reliable druggist's get a bottle of Oxidaze (essential oil) tablets and slowly dissolve one tablet in mouth at regular intervals. Though harmless and pleasant they are so powerful in their action that even in stubborn cases relief often comes in just a few minutes.

Many users who for years have been obliged to sit up in bed gasping for breath and unable to sleep report that they now take an Oxidaze tablet when going to bed and can then lie down and breathe easily and naturally and get a good night's restful sleep.

Druggists everywhere are selling Oxidaze tablets on a positive guarantee to refund the full purchase price of the first package if it fails to give prompt relief in any case of Bronchial Coughs or Asthma.—Adv.

Rep. Corbett said in opening that he had come to read the bill solely upon the solicitation of the chamber of commerce and that he had no political or personal axe to grind. "My mind is wide open for the consideration of fair criticism," he said, "and I gladly welcome any suggestions for modification or addition which I feel the people as a whole favor."

The legislator finished reading the bill at 9:15 o'clock and subsequently announced that he was perfectly willing to answer any fair questions regarding the intent or phraseology of any section.

garding the intent or phraseology of any section.

Supt. of Police Richmond Welch questioned as to the exact interpretation of the section which aims to give the mayor the appointing power of a police superintendent and other officers of the department yearly and inquired particularly as to whether the superintendent would have the protection of the civil service laws. He likened the police department in its protection to the city to the federal army in its service to the nation and asked Mr. Corbett where he thought the American army in France would have landed if Gen. Pershing had come up annually for re-election.

Rep. Corbett stated most emphatically that he firmly believes in healthy rotation in public office. "I do not believe," he said, "that department heads should be so protected by civil service laws that they cannot be reached even though they be inefficient. It is the intention of democratic government that there shall be this healthy rotation."

The police chief reiterated his belief that a man in his office should have the fullest protection afforded by the civil service and pointed out that in the latter laws was a specific clause which says that a man may be removed from office on the presentation of adequate cause.

James Dacey spoke in opposition to the same section in the charter, relative to the annual appointment of a police chief.

Mr. Corbett said that the superintendent of police was not the head of the department at all and that he could not make a move under the present charter without first seeking the approval of the mayor. He asked Superintendent Welch if that was not so and the latter replied in the affirmative.

Mr. Corbett said he had no objection to an amendment which gave the mayor the appointing power, subject to the confirmation by the council.

"Let me say again," continued Mr. Corbett, "that I am here for no political reasons and with no grudges to settle or axes to grind. I have furthered a new charter for the city of Lowell simply because I believe a change is desired. All you have to do is to look back to the last state election when approximately 600 votes were cast in favor of another type of charter to see the feeling of dissatisfaction.

"I do not say that this charter is a perfect instrument, by any means. I am open to discussion and conviction. If you do not like this charter, however, it will not be long before you will have another before you for consideration, perhaps worse than this one. I have no selfish motives involved and will be only too glad to accept any amendment desired by people really interested. If this charter is rejected I will fully co-operate with any one who submits another bill for your approval."

Fred C. Weld expressed the belief that the city does not need a new charter, but, rather, good men to run for office and a city finance commission. He did not believe it wise to turn back to a governing body of 15 members and called attention to many defects in the old style of government, with a common council and board of aldermen.

Mr. Corbett said several things have been pushed through the municipal council during the reign of the present charter which would have been impossible with a larger governing body. Familiar ghosts walked again, in the guise of the proposed new high school, contagious hospital and memorial auditorium. The legislator said the hospital could have been built several years ago for a sum not more than $40,000, compared to the present buildings erected at a cost of $300,000.

Daniel Carroll spoke in defense of the isolation hospital and called Mr. Corbett's attention to the fact that the old hospital considered called for only one building, with 20-odd beds for contagious patients, whereas the present plant includes several buildings and space for 100 beds, with wonderful facilities for the care of tubercular patients. He said he believed the money has been well expended.

Pres. Goodell and Rep. Corbett thanked the audience for courteous attention and interest and the meeting was adjourned shortly after 10 o'clock.

CARLISLE SNOW-BOUND

Coal and Provision Shortage

—Pheasants Search For Food at Back Doors

The snow of the past week has buried the town of Carlisle beneath drifts from eight to ten feet deep, and the entire section looks like a low-lying level field of white. The roads are in such condition that it is almost impossible for horses to get about, and those living at any distance from the centre are obliged to use snow shoes or skis in their traveling. The farmers of Carlisle are complaining of the lack of grain and feed for their stock caused by the stringent freight tie-up, and also state that they are short of coal. Butchers and fish men who used to sell from carts on the roads cannot reach anywhere near the town. Many days townspeople have not had even one delivery of mail and have had no newspapers.

The schools, reopening after a long forced vacation, were obliged to close again and church authorities could not hold services. The birds flocked around the town building in search of food and pheasants became so bold from want of food that they even went up into the yards and to the steps of the houses. The snow on the roads is so deep and asked so hard that it will require many men and considerable expense to clear them.

A few drops of peroxide of hydrogen in an acetylene lamp will increase the brilliancy of the light.

Fortunes in Rubber

Industry has been revolutionized by the great war. "The world demands greater production and better quality products, and is willing to pay almost any price to procure them." There is no other country so fitted to fill the demands of trade as America—but we must have more and larger factories in order to increase the supply of finished products. To build factories requires capital and as the banks are already doing all that they can for industry we must go to the people for finance and pay a liberal price for it.

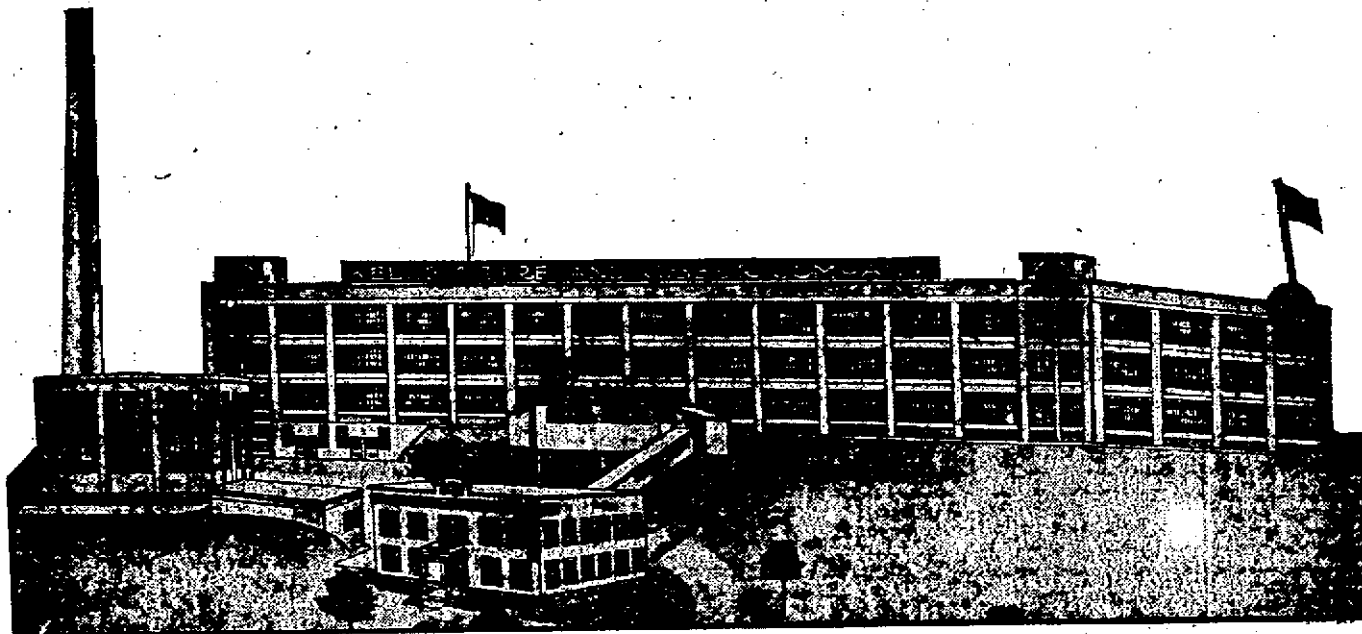

A Harvest For Investors

The world war which worked so many other great changes, brought about an increase in the investor class from a few hundred thousands to several millions in number. People who never knew what thrift was are now fortunate owners of Liberty Bonds and other securities. They now have an opportunity of subscribing to a stock that may properly be described as of phenomenal promise. They can now buy it at a price that allows them to secure ten, twenty or thirty shares for a relatively small outlay and they have the prospect of seeing their investment increased in value as other rubber stocks have done until it is worth many times the original investment.

HISTORY OF COMPANY

Since organization one year ago the company has largely financed itself without recourse to professional money lenders and by so doing are happily in a sound financial condition today. The company owns outright a large section of land on the main line of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad in West Haven, Conn., which is free from mortgages or other incumbrances. It has opened twenty sales and service stations in New England and is now selling Kelley "K" Tread Tires and Kelley Blue Tubes to the trade in sufficient quantity to pay running expenses and show substantial profit besides.

Ground has been broken for our new model Tire Factory and contracts have been let for its erection. It is expected that the plant will be completed and in operation by late spring. Orders have been given for $200,000 worth of machinery and equipment, one-third of the purchase price being paid in advance.

Fortunes Have Been Made By Foresighted Investors in New Enterprises

They "got in on the ground floor" while others looked on and feared the outcome. It is almost impossible to trace the enormous profits received on the dollar of the original investor in the following inventions. Here are a few of the available figures that are reliable as far as we are able to ascertain:

No New Company Can Be Guaranteed of Success

You can get 4 per cent in savings bank or in government bonds. At the same time they do not offer opportunities in such enormous profits as are frequently made by investors in new manufacturing enterprises, as a few examples which may be mentioned—for instance:

RAILROAD STRIKES

Are railroad strikes justified? Read the following discussion of this question, remembering that what is said of strikes applies equally to lockouts, and then draw your own conclusions.

There is some talk of a great railroad strike in the air. The railroad brotherhoods have been disappointed in their efforts to defeat the bill by which the roads have been turned back to private ownership. The leaders know that a strike at this time would be ruinous to all concerned; but the rank and file are displeased and would strike regardless of the consequences if they were not restrained.

The time has arrived when workmen of all classes must get it out of their heads that it is the inalienable right of every class of employees to strike whenever or wherever they please. The exercise of that right, even by a small number of men in certain cases, might mean suffering and death to thousands. That is why this assumed right to strike under any and all circumstances is radically wrong. The policemen's strike in Boston was condemned by public opinion, although it was conceded that the strikers had grievances which should have been redressed. A strike by firemen would be more strongly condemned, because lack of fire protection leaves not only the property of the people but also their lives in danger of destruction.

It is necessary, therefore, in the interest of public safety, that the service of policemen and firemen be continuous, and that strikes of such public servants be absolutely forbidden.

Public Interest First

It may be said in defense of strikes on railroads, that they are justified because the public is not so much dependent upon railroad service as upon the protection provided by firemen and policemen.

That claim is groundless, as may readily be judged from our present mode of living. In Lowell, we are a city of factory workers. Our industries depend upon daily railroad shipments for their raw material and the ability to fill their orders. If the railroads were tied up for a single week, every mill and every factory in our city would be handicapped and would soon be forced to shut down.

How long could the working man with a family dependent upon him support his charge if he had no work to do and no wages coming in every week?

That man's family would be face to face with destitution within a very short time. But the tieup of the railroads would also cut off the source of supply of practically all the necessities of life, so that soon the people of all classes would be without food and fuel. Let that condition be extended over a large area and we shall have an illustration of the dire consequences of a railroad strike which would threaten the lives of the people and irreparable loss as a result of the paralyzing effect upon industry.

Millions Lost for 30 Cents

In this connection, it may be well to mention that, in most cases, the worst sufferers from labor strikes are the strikers and their families. We need not go out of Lowell for proof of this. The strike of the great Carpet mill, then the best mill in Lowell and the best carpet mill in the country, destroyed the industry, drove it out of Lowell in fragments, and saw a large portion of the machinery broken up for junk.

Who were the chief sufferers as a result of that strike? It is true that Young Agent Fairbanks died as a result, and the death of another official was attributed to that strike; but the strikers themselves were the main sufferers. There is no record of how many of them died as a result of the strike, how many were reduced from comfortable circumstances to abject poverty; how many had to seek employment in other cities, nor of the vast amount of wages lost in the long struggle, which was precipitated by hot-headed leaders on the one side and undiplomatic officials on the other.

Let it be remembered that the total amount involved in that strike was an allowance of thirty cents claimed by an operative, when the boss maintained the claim to be unjust. That strike caused a direct loss of several million dollars to the parties concerned and drove from Lowell one of the best industries it ever had.

That was surely an ill-advised strike; but yet, not a whit more so than many others in mills and even on railroads.

Farmers' Manifesto

Last month, the farmers of the country, represented by the four great organizations, issued a statement dealing with the organized railroad strike and condemning it as not to be tolerated under any circumstances.

The farmers make the following statement which is worth careful study as indicating the new trend of public sentiment relative to strikes in the service of public utilities:

No set of men has ever had the moral or legal right to destroy property or cause suffering by conspiring together, and the welfare of all the people must ever remain superior to that of any class or group of people.

What would be the verdict of the people if the farmers of the United States should suddenly decide to go on a strike and refuse to supply the wants and needs of those who are not in a position to produce food and clothing for themselves? They would be condemned from one end of the country to the other and the fact would be pointed out that they as the owners and tillers of the land had no right, either moral or legal, to bring about such a calamity. If the farmers, who own and occupy the land, have no such moral or legal right then why should it be conceded by any one that those who handle the farmers' products have a right to block the transportation of industrial facilities of the country, thus jeopardizing the food and clothing supply of the nation?

That may be regarded as putting the case against railroad strikes a little too strongly; but it expresses what even now is the conviction of the people despite the claims of some labor leaders to the contrary.

Labor has the right to strike under certain restrictions. There is absolutely no human right without limitations.

One of the restrictions upon this right is, that it shall not destroy life or property or imperil the public safety.

That simply means that the public interest is paramount and that if the safety of life or property would be jeopardized by a strike, then the strike should not be allowed. In other words, in the interests of the parties concerned as well as of the public at large, all strikes that would imperil the public should be prohibited.

New Modes of Settlement

But if strikes in public utility service be forbidden, some method of dealing with the questions of wages and working conditions must be devised. The railroad bill just passed makes some progress in this direction by establishing a Railroad Labor board of nine members, of whom labor, the management and the public will each be represented by three. This labor board is to take up and settle disputes that the parties concerned fail to settle among themselves. The right to strike is not absolutely prohibited, but it is hedged around with such conferences, investigations and adjustments as will probably serve all the purposes of a strike while avoiding its actual consequences and preventing any interruption of the service.

This, then, is a step forward for all concerned—for the railroads, the employees and the public. This machinery for settling disputes will probably be so improved in the light of practical experience that eventually it will place the railroad strike in the category of things outlawed for the benefit of the public. When that new day comes, no class will have greater reason to be thankful than the men employed on the railroads. They will then be able to secure just treatment without using the weapon of last resort and bringing serious loss and suffering upon themselves and their families.

In other public utilities also, a means will be found to eliminate labor strikes by timely adjustment of disputes so that there will be no need of the strike as a club with which to enforce the demands of labor.

READY TO PARLEY

Russia and the rest of the world are making an about face. The Bolshevik thought they could set the world afire with their revolutionary torch. They failed and are now willing to cry quits. The allies thought Bolshevikism could be stamped out of Russia by subdized adherents of the old regime. The allies failed, also, and have stopped their subsidies.

The Bolshevik believed success at home was dependent on the overthrow of anti-soviet governments abroad. But, Bolshevism is now in full control of European Russia and half of Siberia, though it has ceased to be a vital issue in any other country.

The allies thought organized government in Europe would cease to exist if the Bolshevik were allowed to work their will in Russia. But, the more Bolshevism triumphed in Russia, the less has Europe's peace been threatened by anarchy.

The hardest thing in the world to recognize is an accomplished fact that disturbs a previous opinion. It has been hard for the Bolshevik to recognize that the rest of the world isn't going to adopt the soviet form of government. It has been equally hard for the rest of the world to recognize that the Russian people want to continue their experiment with soviet rule.

But, the Bolshevik at last are expressing a willingness to trade with middle-class countries and capitalists. At the same time, the allies are preparing to recognize the Moscow government when proof is forthcoming that the Bolshevik have ceased to govern by terror. The proof is at hand. Russian dispatches have shown no terrorist news for a long time.

Russia and the rest of the world, therefore, are soon to enter into new relations. Each will let the other alone, politically. On that normal basis of international intercourse, each can supply the other's material needs with advantage to all concerned.—N.E.A.

PALMER'S CANDIDACY

Attorney General Palmer is the first democrat to declare himself a candidate for the presidency. Mr. Palmer has rendered excellent service in dealing with the radical element throughout the country and he may prove a strong candidate. It is announced, however, that other democratic candidates are to enter the field very quickly including ex-Speaker Clark, ex-Secretary Lansing, William G. McAdoo, James W. Gerard and Gov. Edwards of New Jersey. Mr. Hoover is not upon the democratic list inasmuch as his boosters have been maneuvering to secure for him a place on the republican ticket.

The announcement of Mr. Palmer's candidacy has relieved the republicans of the dread that Pres. Wilson would seek a third term. Evidently the president is not desirous of breaking any more of the fixed customs of our government. He will doubtless be very glad to retire to private life when the end of his term arrives. Had he remained at home and devoted himself mainly to winding up the war, he might have escaped the physical infirmities that have come upon him. He undertook too much for a man of his years and undoubtedly with the best intentions. If he is able to write the history of which he spoke on his return from Europe, it will afford him pleasurable enjoyment for a few years at least.

THE RAILROADS

There will be much speculation for some time to come upon the effect of the transfer of the railroads to private ownership. The companies are not entirely satisfied with the terms and conditions of the transfer but we do not believe they have any right to complain. The increase of fares during the period of government control was 28 per cent. and of freight rates 34 per cent. The companies do not think that freight rates are sufficiently high in proportion to the cost of living. The government expended $1,163,000,000 on the roads during the two years of its control, and yet that amount proves to have been far from sufficient to meet all the needs of better equipment. The shortage of freight cars is particularly felt at this time and will have to be dealt with by the companies as best they can in the near future. The roads, however, are returned to private owners probably in better condition than when the government took charge of them so that it is now up to the companies to prove their claim of superior management.

The municipal budget for the year has been made up and the figures indicate roughly that there will be a very material increase in the tax rate. That was to be expected of course as a result of the increased cost of labor and material. The people will not complain of a higher tax rate provided they get a dollar's worth for every dollar expended.

Perhaps it is social unrest that is producing an unusually large crop of candidates.

One swallow doesn't make a summer, but there are some patched guys who would trade a summer for one swallow.

When organized laborers and organized farmers get into politics to demand their rights prepare to feel sorry for mere salaried men.

Allens are flocking back to central Europe because America has gone dry. They will find that there are worse things than unsatisfied thirst.

J. S. Persinger says that bay rum, hair tonic and toilet articles must be made unfit for beverage purposes. Aren't they?

Every nation in the world is convinced that it is the duty of every other nation to settle down and increase production.

Will it be necessary to give Turks permits to hunt Armenians in order to gratify the Mohammedans in India?

There is, as Squire Abner Huntington points out, but one thing in the world you can't change—and that is "yesterday."

A spring poet is a guy who sees May flowers in April showers, but a more practical cuss is he who remembers to carry his umbrella every morning even if that bright spring sun is shining—then.

In South Africa, as Ed Thierry writes, a native must pay 12 cattle for one wife, and it takes the wife the rest of her life to earn enough to get her husband back into the financial shape he was when he parted with the cattle.

"White Collar Men"

City Clerk W. J. Egan of Newark, N. J., gives out figures showing that only about one of every 100 men who apply for a marriage license in his town is a "white collar" man, such as clerk or bookkeeper. Egan believes the high cost of living is keeping the white-collar guys from embarking upon the wild seas of matrimony.

Medal for Judge

It isn't often a Judge gets a medal pinned on him, is it? More frequently a Judge gets scolded for doing this, or not doing that. Sometimes he gets defeated at election. He gets into court last and gets out first. He gets sore if you cheer the witness, and he gets peeved if you leer the jury. He used to get a robe and wig and a bench to sit on, but now he gets recalled in some states. Often he gets reversed by a higher court. But that's not why he now gets this medal. (Officer, pin a medal on his honor!)

THANKFUL FOR HER HEALTH

Before Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Mrs. Penkey was Miserably Ill.

Ottawa, Ohio.—"After the birth of my baby I was troubled with serious female trouble. At times I was so weak and nervous I could not stand it to hear my baby cry. I tried doctor's medicine with no results. At last a friend advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound which I did and am completely cured. I am thankful for your wonderful medicine and you can use my testimonial as you think best."

—Mrs. JOHN PENKEY, R. 3, Box 6, Ottawa, Ohio.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotics or harmful drugs, and today holds the record of being the most successful remedy we know for woman's ills. If you need such a medicine why don't you try it? Women who are suffering from displacements, irregularities, inflammation, ulceration, backache, sideache, headache, nervousness or "the blues" should not drag along from day to day without giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a trial.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

The death of John J. Kearney, better known as "Roger" Kearney, foreman in the street department, has called forth expressions of regret and eulogy from practically everybody connected with that branch of municipal activity. From Commissioner Dennis A. Murphy to the men who worked side by side with Roger day in and day out for many years sincere grief is felt at his passing. Mr. Kearney had been connected with the department for 40 years and for 30 years had been foreman. In 1917 he was appointed foreman of the city ledge and since then up to the time of his death he spent eight months out of each year directing this important branch of the department. Supt. John D. Hessionington tells me that he was one of the most painstaking men in the employ of the city and that there was never any guesswork where Roger was concerned. If there was anything to be measured, it was measured and not guessed at. He was in the habit of carrying a little book in which various details connected with his work were jotted down and when he was assigned to a job his superiors could rest assured that it would be done properly. In his relations with the men who worked with him Roger was always the kindly adviser, never the loud-mouthed boss. He maintained discipline among his men in a quiet but effective manner. If there was any wrong doing the matter was settled right on the job and not carried to the ears of the men at the head of the department. In his family life Mr. Kearney again exhibited those characteristics that endeared him to all who knew him. His death means a big loss to Lowell's municipal service and, of course, an even greater loss to a loving family.

PLAN TO CLEAR CAR LINE TO TYNGSBORO

People residing between Stevens corner and Woods corner in North Chelmsford will hold a meeting in Mission hall tomorrow evening for the purpose of making plans for a "dig-out" Saturday and Sunday in an endeavor to open the electric car line between the North village and Tyngsboro. The residents of Tyngsboro held a meeting last evening and made arrangements for the cleaning up of their end of the line and plans are now being made for a big army of shovellers to tackle the job Saturday and if necessary to continue the work on Sunday. The officials of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Co. will furnish a plow and a gang of men and it is hoped that that section of the car line will be cleared so that electric car traffic, which has been suspended for a couple of months, will be resumed in the early part of next week.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

by Olive Roberts Barton.

The Discontented Duck
"Quack! Quack! Quack!" The sound came from Mr. Swamp beside the road in Topsy-Turvy Land, where Nancy and Nick were trotting along happily, looking for Jocko. It was a sorrowful, sad quack, and instantly the twins stopped, anxious to help anything in trouble.
"Where are you?" called Nick, "and what's the matter? What's your name?"
"I was a duck once. I don't know what I am now. Come to look," came the answer.
"Why, you're still a duck!" exclaimed

"I was a duck once, I don't know what I am now," came the answer.

Nick, peering through the weeds. "Only your tail looks queer!"
"Doesn't it, though?" said the duck. "I just caught a glimpse of myself in the water, and I must say I'm a sight. But I got what I wanted. I never had a tail, you know, just a nub that waggled when I walked. And I always admired the black Minerva rooster's tail so, especially when the sun shined on it. It glowed and blue. It seemed I now I'm not only ugly, but I have no friends and I miss the grub under the wood pile!"

Nancy took a pair of sharp, shiny scissors from her pocket and held them up. "Perhaps I can cut your tail off," she said.
"Oh, will you?" exclaimed the duck, gratefully. And what happened then? It tell you tomorrow.

OPEN WAY TO FOOD KITCHENS

FOR THOUSANDS OF TOTS

WASHINGTON, March — One hundred and twenty-five thousand additional children will be admitted to the food lines at the childfeeding kitchens of the European Children's Fund in Poland and Hungary, beginning March 1, as the result of contributions received from newspaper readers during the last three weeks.
"This is the announcement of Edgar Rickard, director of the fund. An extension of relief work in Vienna also is contemplated and will be made if additional funds continue coming in, as it is hoped they will. Polish children numbering 100,000 will be provided for. There are 1,300,000 yet to be given relief. Children receiving aid in Hungary will be increased from 100,000 to 125,000. Representative of the relief administration are pleading for authority to increase the number of children fed in Austria from 270,000 to 350,000, declaring that 300,000 must be given relief in Vienna alone.

If the engine is properly oiled and cared for it will last a great many years, and in the same way if the human mechanism is properly looked after it will last the allotted three score and ten years. The human system must be a laboratory for the constant manufacture of rich, red blood, and the blood depends upon the stomach. After many years of study in the active practice of medicine, Dr. Pierce found that when the stomach was out of order, the blood impure and there were symptoms of general breakdown, a tonic made of the alterative extracts of certain herbs and roots was the best corrective.

This no called: Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. For over half of a century this tonic and alterative has been more largely sold than any other blood medicine or nerve tonic. For those who are weakened by the after effects of grip or a bad cold or cough during the winter, nothing will increase the number of red blood corpuscles and eradicate poison from the blood so quickly as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is sold by almost every druggist in the land in tablets or liquid. Send 10c for trial package of the tablets. Write for free medical advice to Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, in Buffalo, N. Y.

VANQUISHED AND VICTORS IN "RUM REVOLT"

Discovery of Seven Human Skeletons

NEW YORK, March 3.—The mystery surrounding the discovery of seven human skeletons on the beach at Staten Island yesterday, was solved today when an investigation disclosed that they were the bones of persons buried forty years ago, when the spot was a cemetery. Recent high tides had washed away part of an eight foot embankment and left the bones protruding from the sand.

BERNE, March 2.—Adherence to the League of Nations by Switzerland was approved by the Swiss National council today, the vote standing 114 to 55. This decision does not bind this country to enter the league, but constitutes a recommendation for a plebiscite to be held during April or May, in which the people will voice their desires.

Cost of Flying Up a Notch

SAN FRANCISCO, March 3.—The cost of flying went up a notch here today. Companies engaged in commercial aviation published a tariff increasing the price of 10 minute "sight seeing" flights 25 per cent to $12.50, and fixing the price for the same period of "stunt" flying at $20. Increased cost of airplane parts, operation and upkeep was given as the reason.

Hungarian Cabinet Resigns

BUDAPEST, Monday, March 1.—Immediately after Admiral Horthy had assumed his duties as regent of Hungary, announcement was made by Premier Huszar that the cabinet had resigned. Admiral Horthy, however, asked that the ministry retain office pending the formation of a new government.

A scene unparalleled in Hungarian history occurred when Admiral Horthy took the oath as regent. Hardly had his affirmation been announced than the diet and galleries rose and sang the national anthem amid wild enthusiasm.

VICK'S VAPORUB

offers a new way to treat croup and cold troubles

THE OLD WAY

Treatment by internal dosing, which does not reach direct to the affected parts and which frequently does derange the digestion.

DIRECTIONS FOR THE USE OF VICKS

Vapors Important.—For diseases of the respiratory organs, such as colds, a large part of the value of Vicks lies in its vaporizing qualities. Therefore, whenever Vicks is applied over the throat and chest, care should be taken to leave the clothing loose around the neck and the bed clothes arranged in the form of a funnel, so that the vapors arising may be freely inhaled.

Hot Wet Cloths.—In cases of very severe colds, sore throat, coughs, incipient pneumonia, etc., hot, wet towels should be applied over the throat and chest to open the pores of the skin before applying Vicks.

Fresh Air.—Plenty of fresh air in the bed room is the best way to prevent colds and lung troubles. Fresh air does not cause colds; it strengthens the lungs, enabling the system to throw off colds.

Asthma.—Vicks is not a "cure" for asthma—so far as we know, there is no cure. In many cases, however, Vicks does give relief. Rub it well over the spinal column, from the neck to the hips to relieve the nervous tension. Then apply freely over throat and chest at bed time and cover with hot flannels. Renew frequently and always have the covers loose, so that the vapors may be freely inhaled. Also melt Vicks in a spoon and inhale the vapors and apply a little up the nostrils.

Bronchitis, Sore Throat, Colds in the Chest.—If a severe case, first apply hot, wet towels over the throat and chest. Then rub Vicks in well until the skin is red, spread on thickly and cover with two thicknesses of hot, flannel cloths.

Catarrh, Colds in the Head.—Melt a little Vicks in a spoon and inhale the vapors. Also apply well up the nostrils. There are so many varieties of catarrh that a competent physician should always be consulted. For many forms, however, Vicks is excellent. Dissolve a half teaspoonful of salt in a pint of warm water and stuff up the nostrils night and morning. Then insert Vicks freely up the nostrils as far as possible, snuffing well back into the air passages.

Growing children require plenty of fresh air and exercise and should be

COLDS are simply inflammation or congestion of the mucous membrane or lining of the respiratory organs—air passages and lungs. They should be treated just as surface inflammations, such as Burns or Bruises are treated—that is, the medication should be applied directly to the inflamed parts. Internal medication going to the stomach does not reach directly the affected parts. But medication cannot be applied directly to the air passages and lungs except in the form of vapors that can be inhaled; and, until the discovery of Vick's VapoRub, there was no efficient, economical method of supplying these vapors.

THE NEW WAY

kept in the open as much as possible, even in the winter.

Croup.—Spasmodic—Rub Vicks freely over chest and throat until the difficult breathing is relieved. One application is usually enough. To prevent croup during the night, give a good application over the throat and chest at bed time and cover with hot, flannel cloths.

Influenza.—In spite of the epidemic last winter, very little is known of this disease—even the germ causing it is not yet definitely located and no specific for influenza so far as known has been discovered. In all cases a physician should be called promptly.

To Avoid Influenza.—Influenza is a spit-borne disease, and when inhaled the germs attack the mucous membrane, or lining of the air passages. Even this is not absolutely certain, but it is agreed by most authorities that keeping the system in good condition and the air passages stimulated and free from colds is the best way to avoid the disease.

Melting a little Vicks in a spoon night and morning and inhaling the vapors, and applying well up the nostrils several times a day, particularly when in crowds, is recommended.

Pneumonia.—(1) Send for your physician at the first sign of pneumonia. (2) Immediately begin the use of Vicks as an external application. For pneumonia, Vicks is applied somewhat as directed for Deep Chest Colds—for full directions see the Directions Folder.

Tonsillitis.—Apply as directed for Sore Throat.

Whooping Cough.—This is a self-limited disease, running a course which varies from a few weeks to several months. There is no known specific—Vicks is of value in easing the cough paroxysms, and thus lessening their weakening effect on the system. Rub Vicks well over the spinal column, from the neck to the hips, to relieve the nervous tension. Then apply over throat and chest, covering with hot flannels.

Vicks is Not Meant to Replace the Physician.—At the first symptoms of a serious illness, such as pneumonia, a physician should always be called. Many other troubles, such as chronic catarrh or continued headache, call for the diagnosis of a good doctor.

Vicks Acts Both Externally and Internally

VICK'S VAPORUB is the discovery of a North Carolina druggist, L. Richardson, who found a way to combine the standard, time-tested remedies—Menthol, Camphor, Turpentine, Eucalyptus, Thyme, Juniper, etc.—in salve form, so that when Vicks is applied to the body, these ingredients are vaporized by the body heat.

INTERNALLY, these vapors, inhaled with each breath all night long, carry the medication direct to the air passages and lungs.

EXTERNALLY, Vicks is absorbed through and stimulates the skin, attracting the blood to the affected parts and aiding the vapors inhaled to relieve the inflammation or congestion.

How the Use of Vicks Has Grown

Starting with the customers of Mr. Richardson's retail drug store, the use of Vicks has increased county by county, state by state, until now more than 17 million jars are used annually—practically one jar for every family in the United States—and this in spite of the fact that Vicks is still a new treatment to many people in the North and West. Once used, Vicks is a friend for life—it is so easily applied—so quick in its results.

well covered with water and the colder the water the better.

For fresh fried potatoes one may pare the vegetables, slice into cold salted water and let stand for 30 minutes. Then drain and fry. This cold water treatment is very effective and lessens the temptation to buy new potatoes.

Menu for Tomorrow

Breakfast—Orange juice, French toast, coffee.

Luncheon—Corn-meal bunny, pickles, Scotch shortbread, tea.

Dinner—Roast chicken, mashed potatoes, Brussels sprouts, asparagus salad, cranberry jelly, Parker House rolls, orange rice pudding, coffee.

My Own Recipes

If Brussels sprouts are a bit steep, substitute creamed onions. Select tiny ones, not because they taste better, but because they look nicer. A cook needs to think of food from all angles. Nourishment, combination of flavors and looks. As chicken is a mild meat, the vegetable needs to be of decided flavor.

COIN-MEAL BUNNY

1½ cups hot corn-meal mush
½ cup milk
1 cup cheese cut in small pieces
2 hard-boiled eggs
1 tablespoon butter
1 teaspoon salt
Paprika

Toast triangles.
Add salt to mush when corn meal mush is hot and add cheese, butter, eggs and milk to mush. Pour over hot toast and add a dash of paprika.

SCOTCH SHORTBREAD

4 cups flour
2 cups butter
2-3 cups powdered sugar
½ teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt

Sift baking powder with flour. Rub butter and sugar together until thoroughly blended. Add flour slowly, working it in with the hands. Pack about 5-inch deep in a shallow pan, prick with fork and bake in a moderate oven until a light brown. Remove from oven and sprinkle with pulverized sugar. Return to oven for a couple of minutes. Cut in two-inch squares while hot.

ROAST CHICKEN

1 4-pound chicken
1½ cups stale bread crumbs
4 tablespoons melted butter
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon pepper

Dress, clean and stuff the chicken. Rub with salt and pepper. Rub the breast and legs with butter and dredge with flour. Pour boiling water in the roasting pan and roast 1 hour. Then remove the cover and let chicken brown. Make a gravy with the juice in the pan. If a moist stuffing is liked, a little hot water may be added to the bread crumbs with the butter. It will take about 1 hour and 10 minutes to roast a four-pound chicken.

DWARF FRUIT TREES

IN SMALL GARDENS

At this time of the year, with occasional warm days heralding true spring weather, the fascination of garden planning has new zest. One possibility in such planning, which has not often been taken advantage of, is that of fruit growing in small gardens. Ordinary fruit trees are associated with large orchards, but large space is not a necessary adjunct, according to garden experts.

Food With Less Care.

The present state of perfection to which dwarf trees of practically all standard varieties of pear, apple and cherry have been brought makes it possible for a gardener of small scale to add to his food supply without overcrowding the space, obstructing dwarf fruit trees will not be as great as that needed by large trees, and there will be no waste or oversupply.

Other fruits which may be added, though not strictly in the dwarf class, are the quince and the sour cherry trees, both of which are low growing, hardy and productive.

Fruitful Hedges

Grapevines, too, make a good porch trellis, when space is available for an arbor. A high fence or back porch may be used as trellis for blackberry plants. In a decorative border, a few clumps of the brilliant red giant rugelbush will not look out of place. As far as hedges which will be both decorative and highly productive, no plants of a useful variety will be more satisfactory than raspberries, gooseberries and currants. They are hardy and will take little care, and will supply ample fruit for each season.

MEETING OF O.M.I. CADET OFFICERS

In the O.M.I. Cadet army last night the first meeting of the Officers' association was held with a large number of the members present. The discussion proved to be very lively throughout the evening. Harv. Denis A. Sullivan, O.M.I., and Francis Gargan addressed the boys in an interesting and advising manner.

The officers chosen for the year 1919 are: Alfred Burns, president; Lester Robinson, vice-president; Ray Crowley, secretary; Herbert McQuade, treasurer; John O'Brien, Frank Burns, and William Dooley, on the board of directors.

The officers plan a ladies' night the first Tuesday after Lent and the following were appointed to make preparations: John O'Brien, Samuel O'Neil, and Frank Ralls.

ON DEAR OLD BROADWAY

Jack and Harry and Lionel Are Back Theda, Eva, Mary and

BY PAUL M. SARAZAN

NEW YORK, March 3.—Thanks to a tip to Stamford, Conn., I am able to furnish the first news about Theda Bara's new stage play that is soon to appear on Broadway. It will be called "The Blue Flame" and contrary to her movie-past, Theda is going to have a sweetheart. This chap is an inventor. He has a little machine rigged up so as to bring the dead back to life. Theda—the charming little sweetheart—is shocked. She "neavah, neavah," would have thought of the lad.

"Well, the inventor has a dream and before him appears little Theda, now a v-a-m-p-i-r-e. It seems she has been killed by lightning and he restored her to life with his "blue flame." Of course, George V. Hobart and John Willard wrote this play in order to give Theda a chance to be the sweet, young innocent type and then transform to the woman without a soul. The play looks good for a long run.

Eva Tanguay, admitting she was a thousand years old, confessing that all her teeth were false and that she wore her hair in shaggy fashion because she had lost her right ear in the war, came back to vividly sing such songs as "You Can't Lose Me," "And Still They Say I'm Crazy," and "They'll Never Make a Monkey Out of Me."

If a week went by without some member of the Pickford family breaking into stardom, we'd think it was a freak. Both Lily Mary and Jack helped roll the simoleans into Ma Pickford's little purse this week. Mary announced she is going to take her kurruls all around the world and make a great big picture that has scenes in every clime.

Jack got his name in electric lights in front of the Strand, where he posed in "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come," a rather stretched out picture. The "prodigal grandpa" is the latest fad for playwrights, according to "Shavings," a new play in which Harry Beresford stars at the Knickerbocker. All of which shows the sweet, simple little plot of how a hard-working self-sacrificing old coddler professed guilt for a crime of which he believed a young fellow to be innocent. Henry Savage fooled those who expected "Shavings" to have barbed shop locale.

A million show fans in every part of the United States who have followed the steps of Gus Edwards' "Cuddles," now Miss Lily Lee in Paramount Pictures and the little leading man—George Price, are happy this week with the knowledge that little George is to have his own movie company entitled "George Price Comedies Inc., which will make two-reel movie-jazz-gems. "School Days," "Welcome Home, Laddie Boy," "Just Around the Corner From Broadway," and scores of other famous Edwards' tunes have brought Price to a stellar position on the big-time vodvil stage.

When Adolph Zukor said Lily Lee was the prettiest little girl in America, folks wondered why the great movie man didn't also pick George from the vodvil stage. 'S too late now.

Financiers got behind the little chap and told him all Wall Street would back him in the making of prize comedy subjects. "The Chorus Man," will probably be the title of his first release.

Mae Murray is posing at the Rivoli in her much-toasted picture, "On With the Dance." The old story of the moth and the flame is herein lifted in such a way that a fetching young miss from Russia marries a rich New Yorker and then begins playing around the cabarets. Naturally, the logical ending is divorce or bankruptcy.

Since last week's column wherein was told about Lionel Barrymore being deprived of his $10,000 worth of joy-water which he had so carefully selected and stored in his cellar and about which he had neglected to place a militia, there have been developments which indicate Lionel's and John Barrymore's trend of thought.

Lionel is going to appear in a new play called, "The Letter of the Law," at the Criterion Theatre, next week. And just the other night when John heard somebody laugh out of time during his "The Jest," he called the laughter a "damn fool." So Jawney got his name on the front pages of all the papers.

LOST LAMBS SAVED FROM HUNGRY COYOTES

(By Newspaper Enterprise Ass'n.)

SPOKANE, Wash., March 3.—Playing father to lost lambs abandoned by Spartan-hearted shepherds as they migrate with their flocks to pastures new, has become a profitable recreation for western farm boys, who live in Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Montana and Utah.

Flock owners have previously figured that it was not worth their while to bother with the weak lambs which fell by the wayside when the bands of sheep were moved to summer range, and these weaklings furnished the feasts for the coyotes which customarily trailed the flocks.

Six years ago Uncle Sam organized the pioneer society to save the lost lambs. The club boys systematically follow the sheep drives which pass to and fro through their localities during the grazing season in order to rescue the weaklings which cannot stand the exhausting travel. Tradition is to the effect that anyone can have the lambs who will take the trouble to pick them up and care for them.

The orphan lambs have to be fed by bottle like babies until they are old enough to wean, and this necessitates painstaking care and regular attention in order to give the youngsters a good start in life.

The surplus milk of the farm supply generally is the fundamental article in the lost lamb's dietary until the baby sheep are old enough to nibble grain, hay and browse over the fields. When pasture-broken, a favorite practice of the lost lamb club boys is to stake their lambs along the banks of irrigation ditches, where weeds which are keenly relished by sheep are abundant.

Thousands of lost lambs have been rescued by the club boys since the missionary work began. Last year in Utah alone it is estimated that over 5000 abandoned lambs were saved from the coyotes and wolves and were operative in keeping a large number of regular boys out of mischief.

Sheepmen are now coming to realize that it is profitable to care for the weak lambs, and, even though they do not bother to raise the animals themselves, some of them now have wagons follow the spring drives when the sheep are headed range-ward and pick up the weak lambs. These lambs usually are sold for distribution among the boys' clubs.

The main thing is that the lambs are saved and raised for food purposes or else to produce raw material for clothing.

The Massachusetts committee on the necessities of life reports the cost of living has increased 82 per cent. in that state since 1914.

SOUTH AFRICA HAS MANY HOLIDAYS

BY EDWARD M. THIERREY, With Smithsonian-Universal African Expedition

JOHANNESBURG, Transvaal—South Africa is the land of holidays. We are merely pliers in America with our six yearly days of rest—New Year's, Decoration Day, the Fourth, Labor Day, Thanksgiving and Christmas.

There are 11 holidays a year in South Africa, all set aside by act of parliament. There are three each in May and December alone. Just take a look at this list and get jealous:

New Year's Day, Good Friday, Easter Monday, Ascension Day (May 18), Victoria Day (May 24), Union Day (May 31), King's Birthday (first Monday in August), the first Monday in October, Dingaan's Day (Dec. 16), Christmas Day and Boxing Day (Dec. 26).

Union Day is in celebration of the establishment of the Union of South Africa in 1910. Victoria Day is in honor of Queen Victoria. Dingaan's Day celebrated the victory of 400 Boers under Andries Pretorius over 12,000 Zulus under Chief Dingaan in 1838. Boxing Day is the same as in England; no one knows quite how it started, but they do have boxing matches that day.

The queerest holiday is the one officially designated the "first Monday in October." It's popularly known as Weisner's Day because a Boer member parliament named Weisner, shot up one day and declared that inasmuch as "it's a long time between holidays" he proposed introducing a bill for another for "some day in October." The bill was passed.

Rhodesia goes South Africa one better. It has 12 public holidays. It hasn't got Union Day, Dingaan's Day or Weisner's Day, for Rhodesia is a protectorate and not a province of the South African union. But it has four

WORLD FAMOUS MOULIN REDEET TO BE REMOVED

PARIS, Feb. 23.—The world famous Moulin Redet, one of the two remaining windmills which for centuries have crowned the Montmartre, is to be removed to make room for the construction of new houses. As this will inevitably ruin the picturesque spot from the artists point of view, the painters are in despair and lovers of old Paris are endeavoring to get the authorities to consent to the mill being moved to another site instead of being pulled down.

During the seventeenth century, the hill side and top of Montmartre were covered with windmills. The number finally dwindled to two, the Moulin de la Galette and the Moulin Redet. For many generations the artists of all countries have sought out the Montmartre for the purpose of reproducing these mills on canvas. The cotton was a favorite one with American tourists and artists.

NO ARRESTS FOR MURDER OF AMERICANS

CONSTANTINOPLE, Monday, March 1.—All Americans in Aintab, where disorders occurred early in February, were safe on Feb. 14, according to a courier who has arrived here from Asia Minor. The situation in Aintab has become quiet, and Armenians and Moslems have retired to their respective quarters. Moslems in the city have refused to sell supplies to Christians. Roads leading to Aintab are infested with bandits.

The American commission for relief in the Near East, has re-established communication with Mesopotamia and is sending in supplies. No arrests have as yet been made as a result of the murder of James Perry and Frank Johnson, two American Y.M.C.A. men, near Aintab on Feb. 21.

CLUB LAFAYETTE ACTIVITIES
In order to stimulate activity among the members of Club Lafayette the directors of the organization have sent out notices to the entire membership requesting them to meet at the clubhouse in Wamsanell street next Thursday afternoon and evening for the purpose of arranging contests in pool, whist and bridge whist. It is planned to form various teams and to appoint captains and later a series of matches between the different teams will be arranged.

Twenty-seven new members were installed at the regular meeting of the C.M.A.C. which was held last evening with President Adolph Brastard in the chair. The attendance was large and considerable business was transacted. It was voted to take one membership in the chamber of commerce, the association to be represented by its president. Six applications for membership were received and the house committee was instructed to investigate the cost of needed improvements in the shower baths. The sum of $50 was voted in prizes for the bowling league.

ARMENIANS APPEAL TO AMERICANS

NEW YORK, March 3.—Declaring that the allied premier have tentatively planned partition of Armenia, the American committee for the independence of Armenia, today issued an appeal asking Americans to protest such action and also to demand the end of Turkish rule there. The committee, headed by James W. Gerard, former ambassador to Germany, urges churches, civic, commercial and other bodies to communicate with the president and congress "to the end that this ancient martyr-nation may be liberated and preserved."

ST. JOHN'S HOSPITAL ADDITION
The new addition to St. John's hospital will not be ready for occupancy until some time in the early part of April, so it was learned this morning.
It was expected that the new building would be finished before this, but the scarcity of labor and delays in the shipping of materials have kept the work back.

SLOT MACHINES IN POOL ROOMS AND STORES

That more than 30 so-called slot machines have been installed recently in pool rooms and stores throughout the city was the statement made to the license commission by Officers Moore and Cooney at the weekly meeting of the commissioners held last evening. These machines have been sold to the local men by out-of-town agents, they said, who, in making the sales, told the buyers that the machines were entirely "within the law."

The agents stressed took care to cover up their transactions "under cover" according to the officers, and they had found it impossible to make any arrests up to the present time.

Discussion of the slot machines took place during the hearing of the case of Frank Wawonski, proprietor of a Lakeview avenue pool room, charged with having one of these devices in his establishment. Wawonski was recently arraigned on this charge in the municipal court and fined $10. He offered as his defense last evening that he had only had the machine in his possession two days when it was seized by the police and had intended to have it removed after discovering that its presence there was against the law.

Chairman Hanson stated that he believed the proprietor had been sufficiently punished for his offense, which had been caused through ignorance of the law, and was in favor of allowing his license to stand. It was finally decided to take the matter up for advisement for the present.

During the evening the following minor licenses were granted: To change or make addition to a licensed place of business, husband and wife, 216 Westford street; brilliant and pool, John Shumme, 118 Middlesex

WASHINGTON, March 3.—The Shantung reservation to the peace treaty was before the senate today with the leaders predicting a prompt vote. The two republican reservations affecting the Monroe Doctrine, and domestic questions were readopted yesterday, the former drawing seven and the latter five more democratic votes than they received in November. Advocates of ratification without reservation were said to feel that adoption of the reservations as proposed by the majority was only a matter of so many roll calls and that a final ratification vote would not be long delayed.

LOCAL COAL SITUATIONDelivery of Hard Coal Uncertain—Soft Coal Supply
at Very Low Ebb

Lowell's soft coal situation is more critical today than at any previous time this winter. Plenty of hard coal for domestic consumption is at hand, but delivery is most uncertain and slow because of hard travelling.

Not only is the soft fuel supply at a decidedly low ebb, but there is no reason for the assumption that it will be very much improved for some time to come. This does not mean that any industries will be forced to shut down, but many of the textile plants, particularly the smaller corporations, are living a hand-to-mouth existence, with just enough coal coming to them day by day to allow them to carry on 24 hours at a time. There is no possible way to prepare for an emergency nor to meet it should one arise.

The larger mills, such as the Massachusetts, Tremont & Suffolk, Hamilton, Appleton, Booth and Lawrence have been up against a real shortage at

Charged with manslaughter in causing the death of Sylvester Carter, 50, of North Wilmington, who was struck and fatally injured by an automobile on Middlesex street Jan. 1, John E. Burns of this city was found not guilty and discharged by Judge Enright when his case was called on for continuance in the municipal court today.

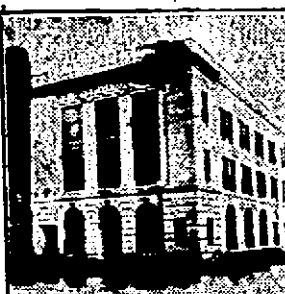

An inquest report on Carter's death submitted by Judge Pickman was made public when the case was called. The report states that Carter was crossing Middlesex street near King street on the day of the accident and that he was struck by the left bumper of Burns's machine. Burns sounded his horn when a few yards away from Carter, the report states, and at NEWPORT, R. I., March 3.—A protest that an effort was being made by Lieut. E. M. Hudson, U.S.N., to "entrap" him was voiced from the witness stand today by Bishop James De Wolfe Perry of the Episcopal diocese of Rhode Island at the hearings before a naval board of inquiry into charges that the naval anti-vice squad was guilty of vicious practices. Judge Advocate Hymen held that the protest was "close to contempt of court" and moved that it be stricken from the records, but the court allowed the bishop's statement to stand.

When reports of today's work are received this evening at the Irish bond campaign headquarters in the Howe building it is expected that the total amount will be within $2000 of the city's quota of $60,000. Today's good weather enabled many of the workers, especially in the suburban towns, to cover much territory that hitherto had not been reached and this evening reports should show beneficial results.

There is very little doubt but what the quota for Lowell will be realized by the end of the week, although the campaign officers are warning the 600 workers not to become over-confident until the $60,000 mark is actually reached. With the stores closed tomorrow afternoon one big final

HOPING FOR THE BESTHot Sun and Warm Rain
May Relieve the Transportation Situation

Today's thaw and a weather report which promises rising temperature and probable light rains tomorrow will be instrumental in fixing the local trolley and railroad transportation situation beyond the possibility of another freeze-up, unless an unprecedented spell of winter sets in.

The B. & M. freight yards were tied up as usual early today but had thawed out considerably by noon time, so as to allow for fairly free movement of cars.

The local congestion is still acute enough, however, to cause the railroad to issue the statement today that it will not accept less than one load lot, with the exception of perishables at the Western avenue freight house either tomorrow or Friday.

There is an actual scarcity of empty cars and actual shuffling engines are out of commission and will be forced to await the attention of an already overworked repair gang.

Trolley cars are running to more distant points on all lines which have been restricted, because of the ice. For the first time in many days a Broadway car went as far as Walker street this morning. Andover street and Hovey square routes are being opened up and interurban lines to Tewksbury and Billerica Centre are proceeding beyond yesterday's limits. Disabled cars still disrupt schedules and extra trips during the rush hours will have to be abandoned to a considerable extent until the work of repair can catch up with the demand.

BRICKLAYERS TO HOLD CONVENTION HERE

Beginning next Monday the bricklayers of the various unions of the city throughout the state will attend an annual convention to be held in Lowell and which will last four days. The men will convene in Hamilton hall in the Odd Fellows building.

On Monday evening the reception to the visiting members will be held and Mayor Thompson and Commissioner Donnelly have promised to be present. The convention will consider the labor question as affecting the bricklayers' trade and other matters of interest. During their stay in Lowell the delegates from other cities will be accommodated at several of the local hotels.

The following bricklayers of the Lowell union are in charge: Arthur Sweeney, John McCabe, Frank Warren, James Kelley and A. Sheehan.

MADRID, March 3.—Reports from the Portuguese frontier today declare that the workmen in Portugal have proclaimed a soviet republic. The postal, telegraphic and other workers are said to have joined the railroad men in the move. The news, which reached here from the border by telephone, has not been confirmed.

A strike of all the employees on the Portuguese railroads was announced in a despatch from Tuy, Spain, on the Portuguese border, Tuesday. The strike began Monday night. The message said it was believed all the postal and telegraphic employees would strike in sympathy with the railroad men who were demanding an increase in wages.

RED CROSS CONGRESSRelations Between Old International Red Cross and New League Very Cordial

GENEVA, Tuesday, March 2.—Relations between the old International Red Cross and the new league of Red Cross societies are very cordial, said Gustave Ador, former president of Switzerland, in addressing the Red Cross congress at its opening meeting here today.

M. Ador, who is chairman of the International Red Cross committee, said there was little probability of rivalry between that organization and the league. He held, however, the league could not as yet be considered universal in its scope. Full co-operation was promised in behalf of the International Red Cross by the speaker, who alluded to the powerful resources at the disposal of the league, and its practical program of work.

William S. Rappard, of Geneva, who was elected chairman at the opening of the congress, replied to M. Ador, pointing out there never had been any idea of "infidelity to the international committee" in the minds of those engaged in the formation of the league. He declared that "when the league has realized its purpose, it, too, will have become universal."

Major General Sir David Henderson, former director general of military aeronautics in the British army, and now director-general of the league, there was little probability of rivalry announced in submitting his report that the American and Italian delegations had worked out independently of each other, complete plans for relief work in Russia.

Twenty-seven states were represented at today's meeting. None of the new states created by the treaty of Versailles, with the exception of Poland, sent delegates, but all the old European countries except Germany, Russia, Austria, Bulgaria and Turkey, have representatives here.

WASHINGTON, March 3.—Investigation will be made by the senate foreign relations committee on charges that George W. P. Hunt of Arizona, nominated by President Wilson for minister to Siam, had publicly declared his sympathy with the I.W.W. before action is taken on the appointment. The committee so decided today, but deferred until Friday any decision on detailed plans for hearing the case.

CAPE COD CANAL TIEUP AFFECTS LOWELL

As the result of a telegram received today by the Lowell chamber of commerce from the Massachusetts chamber of commerce, stressing the serious situation created by the controversy over the Cape Cod canal, William N. Goodell, local president, this noon wired Congressman John Jacob Rogers, Senator Henry Cabot Lodge and Senator David L. Walsh, as follows:

"Cape Cod canal situation seriously affects Lowell industries. Barely enough tide water coal arriving to keep mills running. Would urge protest against attitude of federal government and seek resumption of control."

Congressman Rogers immediately replied, as follows:

"Your telegram received. Massachusetts delegation in congress planning to call in a body upon Secretary of War Baker today or tomorrow on Cape Cod canal matter. I assure you of my hearty co-operation in this connection."

SHIPPING BOARD READY TO SELL HOG ISLAND

WASHINGTON, March 3.—The shipping board is ready to sell Hog Island, the great fabricating shipyard built during the war.

Chairman Payne announced today that title to the yard site had been perfected by payment of $1,757,000 to the American International Shipbuilding Co., which owned the land and that he was ready to receive tenders for the property.

Purchase of the yard by the state of Pennsylvania or the city of Philadelphia for use as a shipping terminal has been suggested.

ADMITS KILLING CLANCYSanmarco Maintains He Tried To Shoot Another Officer—Trial at Boston

BOSTON, March 3.—Joseph Sammarco, on trial for the murder of Patrolman William M. Clancy, at a dancing party in Roughan hall, Charlestown, early on the morning of January 22, admitted the killing on the witness stand today, and threw himself on the mercy of the court. He made a previous confession to the police at the time of his arrest, several weeks ago. Sammarco said he intended to wound another patrolman, D. Franco, who was also in the hall, but someone hit his arm as he fired, and the bullet struck Clancy.

PREDICTS UPHEAVAL IN N. Y. POLICE FORCENEW YORK, March 3.—Stirring speculations as to the police department were predicted at the district attorney's office today after John J. Gun-son, a police detective, had been indicted on charges of bribery and exortion. Three women testified before the grand jury against him.Further indictments against members of the police force were forecast and it was said that disclosures would result in the greatest upheaval in the department since the Becker case. The grand jury for several months has been investigating the methods of members of the "vice squad" who arrest women.Evidence has been obtained that some detectives are not only grafting upon women, but are preventing them from leading better lives, according to the district attorney's office. Rebecca Melyado, one of the witnesses against Gunsun testified that in three years she had paid a detective sums totalling $600 and given him suits of clothes and other presents. She posed as this detective's sister, she said, and assisted him in arresting other girls who refused to pay detectives. Her testimony was corroborated by Stella Young, it was announced.Miss Melyado also testified that if a young woman sought to reform she was hounded by the police, her employers being informed of her previous life if she got a job.

STREET CARLINEMen of Tewksbury and other Andover street joined forces with regular trackmen of the Bay State division again today for the job of removing several feet of snow and a thick layer of ice from the car line which is supposed to serve that section of the city as far as the foot of North Tewks-bury hill. A score of volunteers this forenoon had their ranks increased 50 per cent. after dinner by men from the hill who were not able to leave farm duties during the morning hours and before nightfall the rails will be open to a point well beyond Clark road.Once before this winter the men of this district have answered a volunteer call and subsequently opened the line as far as the blacksmith shop and the car sent out yesterday by Edward B.
Trull and others met with hearty response today. The Bay State sent a pick and shovel crew along with a big plow and the work began in earnest at the turnout just beyond Wentworth avenue. At 12 o'clock there was open rail several hundred yards beyond Daniels street.A road scraper was first sent over the route, leaving a layer of ice about four inches thick. Monday's thaw had spread a miniature lake over the track in the hollow and ice which had formed there extended to a depth of six and seven inches. This was tackled first.The warm sun at mid-day was a great asset and this afternoon the progress made was uncommonly rapid.
It is probable that the work will be
is reached tonight.Hearing on Appeals to Test Dry LawWASHINGTON, March 3.—Under an agreement between counsel an-

MOTOR RIDEPresident Left White House Grounds Today For First

Photographers Are Banned
by the PoliceWASHINGTON, March 3.—President Wilson went for a motor ride today, leaving the White House grounds for the first time since he was ordered to bed last October by Rear Admiral Grayson, a "very sick man."The president was accompanied by Mrs. Wilson, Dr. Grayson and several service men, and took a spin around the "speedway" along the Polomac. A closed car was used, and the party left through the southwest gate. Photographers who had waited several weeks for the president's reappearance in public, were prohibited by the police from taking photographs.Almost ideal weather prevailed for the president's ride, the day being as balmy as one in late spring with only a gentle wind stirring. The car was kept closed throughout the trip, however. The president sat in the rear seat with Mrs. Wilson and kept his cap in his hand most of the time.

Out for an Hour

From the speedway the president drove back into the city and down Pennsylvania avenue around the Capitol and thence to the White House.
He was out a little more than an hour and appeared to have enjoyed his outing.Going through the Capitol grounds, the president passed Senator Borah of Idaho, and recognition was simultaneous, both waving their hands and smiling. Throughout the trip, Dr.
Grayson said, the president was delighted and remarked that he felt as if he had been away from Washington for a long time.Passing the vicinity of a market house, the president, who delights always in reading signs when he is motoring, saw a large sign quoting "pork at 35 cents a pound. Although he has given much serious consideration to the high cost of living, the president remarked to Mrs.
Wilson, "That brings it home to you when you see a big sign like that."During the drive the president passed many groups of people who recognized him and he smiled his ac-knowledgegment of their greeting. Quite often women waved to him."Decision to allow the president to go out today was made by Admiral Grayson early this morning. Yesterday the president anticipating a good day today, suggested that he would like to go riding, and when he renewed the suggestion today, Dr. Grayson acquiesced. The president's closed car and a secret service machine drew up to the south entrance of the White House at about 11 o'clock. A few moments later, the president accompanied by Mrs. Wilson, and Dr. Grayson came out from under the colon-nade. The president walked to the car with the aid of his cane. Dr. Grayson was at his side, and held lightly to the president's arm. The president was assisted in the car by Dr. Grayson and Mrs. Wilson. He wore his old gray sweater under a medium weight overcoat.Dr. Grayson said that the president had been much benefited by his trip and that an examination of his blood pressure on his return showed it to be quite normal.The president probably will not go out driving every day for a time. Today's trip was in the nature of a diversion and future outings will be regulated by the weather, Dr. Grayson said.

"DIG-OUT" CAMPAIGN

Storekeepers, Mill Men and Others Believe in Fulllest Co-operation

According to opinions expressed by many public-spirited citizens, the second "dig-out" campaign suggested by Mayor Thompson for tomorrow afternoon should be such a success as to rival any similar undertaking of other cities. One other thing that should aid in the work of clearing the streets is that most of the stores of the city will be closed for the afternoon.

The proposition made by many individuals is that each household and merchant see to it that walks, gutters and catch basins in the vicinity of his property are cleared.

The several department stores of the city are ready to co-operate in any way that is practical for them, but they all state that up until last night they had not been approached on the subject in regard to specific plans. Their only notification of the origin of any such plan was through the newspaper columns.

In view of that condition they have been unable to decide as to what steps should be taken.

Mr. Townes, assistant manager of the Chaffin company, claimed the fault previously was that the appeal for men was not carefully planned, the result being that the number who turned out was not sufficient. "Of course, the last campaign was organized in a hurry," he said, "and possibly for that reason it lacked the personal appeal. A personal and specific request should be made to all merchants and then they would have time to call a meeting of their men to urge them to remain on duty Thursday afternoon with picks and shovels. If this was done the factories would also have opportunity to enlist some of their men for Saturday afternoon. The business streets should be cleared first, because autos continue to go in the tracks and that holds up car schedules."

Agent Mitchell, of the Massachusetts mills, proffered the suggestion that more high school boys be called out. "It was one of the remarkable incidents of the last dig-out," he said, "that the boys who are able to stand the strain much better than some of the old men who showed city spirit enough to go out, did not appear. The number of men who did work surely was no commendation for the spirit of Lowell, down in Worcester thousands of men and boys turned out and that city is not much larger than Lowell. The Massachusetts corporation sent 25 men with trucks and equipment to help last time. The mills will run Thursday afternoon and we may not be able to loan any men. The stores now have their chance to do their part."

Postmaster Sheehan said, "The only correct thing to do is to clear the gutters and sewers. The sun must clear the roads, unless four or five hundred men are put to work right away and kept at the job until it is completed. This would add to the tax rate, but unless the public co-operates it may have to be done. The 'dig-out' campaign, however, should not be restricted to any particular day, but held in force at any time that is convenient for shovellers, and let everyone tend to his own street. It would be impossible to take away all the snow and ice in the street. All that can be done in many places is to shovel the ice from the walks into the middle of the street and attend to the sewers and gutters."

Mr. Blessington, superintendent of streets, claimed that there is still a great deal more work even where the last crowd of men shovelled because they cleared only one side of the streets and left the other side, in many cases, banked high with snow. "The city men are ready to turn out for the business section, but their work may be extended to residential districts if they meet any kind of co-operation. That the clogged streets have not been cleared is no fault of the street department, for we are very short of men. If the dig-out is started the aim should be to clear all the streets."

Mr. Conway, of the Conway Transfer company, stated that everyone should work for himself, including the storekeepers. He said that he sent two of his sleds up to his own street last time and on Thursday also, will send two there. He claimed that no attempt should be made to remove all the ice, because that would leave the bare pavement in places as obstruction to traffic, as has been done already in some sections. "The sewers and gutters are what should be tackled by any squad of men, and not the banks of snow. It would be foolish to think of removing them."

The men at the American Express depot declared that it was not wise to start the campaign until the sun had softened up the ice. Then the caked snow could be dug up and would not have to be chipped off, as must be done in cold weather. According to express teamsters, some of the streets

When asked about the co-operation of the foreign population, Miss Hutton of the International Institute, claimed that they would help if they were approached in the proper way, but that they could not be expected to leave their work on Thursday afternoon. "Those who are in charge of the dig-out activity," she said, "should ask the foreign societies and clubs to manage the campaign among the foreign colonies. If they have not done it already, and if impressed with the importance of it, the foreigners will accede to any request to dig out around their own streets during the time they are not working."

The several undertakers of the city are ready to take a hand themselves and hope to get many volunteers, especially lot owners, to open up the roads in the cemeteries. One of the undertakers suggested that the big scraper owned by the city be put to work on the cemetery roads. Another has issued a call for volunteers with shovels to meet at his shop. He will take them from there to the cemetery in his autos. The roads to the cemeteries are so bad that sometimes a casket has to be transferred from the hearse to an ordinary pump before it can be conveyed to its proper place.

The trend of opinion favors that every one "dig-out" himself, and if that is done by all merchants and householders, Lowell need have no fear of damage resulting from the melting of snow and ice.

GIRLS' COMMUNITY SERVICE CLUB

The Girls' Community Service club considered a number of important questions at the monthly meeting last night, but wisely deferred definite action until a larger representation of the membership can be grouped together. Evening school sessions and sickness kept the attendance down to less than 200 last night.

The principal items on the calendar for discussion and decision were a monthly publication of some sort and ways and means of raising $1100 for

The installation of steel lockers in the new gymnasium dressing rooms.

Suggestions as to a club magazine were made by Arthur P. Woodies of The Sun staff, who outlined the work involved in the attempt to publish either a large bulletin for city-wide circulation, or a smaller pamphlet for distribution within the membership of the club.

Miss Sadie Melancon, vice-president, presided and urged the importance of a large attendance at the monthly meetings when so many important discussions pertaining to the actual life of the club take place.

Plans were made for the election of officers next month and the following nomination committee was appointed by the chair to bring in a list of nominees: Miss Clementine Verbove, Miss Mildred Cox and Miss Ida Zoll.

The ways and means committee, Miss Noreen Gaffan, chairman, has been assigned the task of presenting a scheme for the raising of sufficient money for the installation of gym lockers.

WOULD REPEAL THE FISH LICENSE LAW

(Special to The Sun.)

STATE HOUSE, Boston, March 3.—Repeal of the law requiring licenses for the right to fish was favored here today on the ground that this action would have been taken by the Pilgrim fathers if the question were put up to them.

George A. Garside, former member of the commission on fisheries and game, in favor of the repeal legislation, declared that the early colonists were in favor of free "fowling, hunting and fishing" because of the drastic laws on the subject in England, where common people were not allowed to trespass upon the game preserves of the aristocracy.

"The right of the people to fish upon the great ponds of the state has been preserved to them largely because of the action of the early law-makers of the commonwealth in view of the stringent regulations in the old countries," said Mr. Garside. "When the legislature changed the law whereby persons had to pay for the right of using their own ponds and rivers then an injustice was done which should not be allowed to continue."

Mr. Garside declared there is no legitimate reason for the licensing of fishermen, although there is some in the case of hunters. In the latter instance, he said, the license serves to keep a check on gunners, having dangerous weapons in their possession. Such a precaution, he believed, is not necessary in the case of fishermen. In the matter of conservation Mr. Garside contended there is no need for this, there being a plentiful supply of all kinds of fish raised by the state, other than trout.

EX-GOV. MC CALL RAPS

"BIG FOUR" SLATE

WASHINGTON, March 3.—Ex-Gov. Samuel W. McCall, in a statement here yesterday, warned the republicans of Massachusetts against "placidity accepting a machine-made ticket" in the primary elections for delegates at-large to the national convention.

Mr. McCall's principal criticism was leveled at the "big four" slate, which is composed of Senator Lodge, ex-Senator Crane, Speaker Gillett and Edward A. Thurston, but he inferentially criticized the managers of the Wood campaign in the Bay State for agreeing to accept the four men named in this group without a protest.

Home Furnishings Go to Museums—Will Filed

PLYMOUTH, March 3.—The home furnishings of Mrs. Lavina W. Magri, known to America and Europe as Mrs. Tom Thumb, who died recently, will be distributed among several museums, it was announced today. Her collection was claimed to include the smallest practical furniture in use. Two miniature sewing machines and a piano are among the pieces mentioned in her will, filed for probate yesterday. Several of the articles were gifts from European royalty before whom she had performed.

The remainder of her property is to be divided between her husband Count Magri, also a midget, and two nephews.

ARE YOUR KIDNEYS WEAK?

Thousands of Men and Women Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It.

Most people do not realize the alarming increase and remarkable prevalence of kidney disease. While kidney disorders are among the most common diseases that prevail, they are almost the last recognized by patients, who usually content themselves with doctoring the effects, while the original disease constantly undermines the system.

Weak kidneys may cause lumbago, rheumatism, calarrh of the bladder, pain or dull ache in the back, joints or muscles, at times have headache or indigestion, as time passes you may have a sallow complexion, puffy or dark circles under the eyes, sometimes feel as though you had heart trouble, may have plenty of ambition but no strength, get weak and lose flesh. If such conditions are permitted to continue, serious results are sure to follow; Kidney Trouble in its very worst form may steal upon you.

If you feel that your kidneys are the cause of your sickness or run down condition, begin taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the famous kidney, liver and bladder medicine, because as soon as your kidneys are well, they will help the other organs to health.

If you are already convinced that Swamp-Root is what you need, you can purchase the regular medium and large size bottles at all drug stores. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., which you will find on every bottle.

SPECIAL NOTE—You may obtain a sample size bottle of Swamp-Root by enclosing ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. They will also send you a book of valuable information, containing many of the thousands of grateful letters received from men and women who say they found Swamp-Root to be just the remedy needed in kidney, liver and bladder trouble. The value and success of Swamp-Root are so well known that our readers are advised to send for a sample size bottle. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. Be sure to say you read this offer in The Lowell Sun.—Adv.

CHIFFON HAT FOR SUMMER SUNSHINE

BY CORA MOORE,
New York's Fashion Authority
NEW YORK, March — When small,

trim hats of spring lose their charm as the days lengthen into real summer, soft, frilly hats will be ready to take their place, as they have every summer in memory. This year designers are favoring children and tulle with brims drooping to shade the eyes. Constance Binney wears a large hat of shell-pink chiffon which illustrates the mode. Low over the eyes, and flaring slightly higher in the back, the hat is trimmed only with a band of blue gros-grain ribbon of medium width that the base of the crown, and one up-standing conventional blue flower at the side of the front. The crown is shirred in upon cords at intervals.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Youth and high spirits are the pre-dominating notes in the Thomas H. Ince production, "Mary's Ankle," which is coming to the Merrimack Square theatre for three days commencing tomorrow. Douglas MacLean and Doris May, who made such an unexcelled debut as co-stars in "Twenty-Three and a Half Hours' Leave," are the featured players. The picture is an adaptation of May Tully's hilarious stage play of the same name.

The other feature for Thursday, Friday and Saturday is Irene Castle, the famous dancing star, in "The Amateur Wife," one of her most successful productions. The photoplay, which was adapted from a magazine story by Nalbro Bartley, concerns a young French convent girl who comes to America to live with her mother, a musical comedy queen and is very interesting.

A new comedy and the News Pictorial round out the bill. "The Confession," Hal Reid's famous Lenten drama,

B. K. KEITH'S THEATRE

The Maryland Singers, appearing at the B. K. Keith theatre, this week, are presenting not alone one of the prettiest acts of the season, but one which is filled with many of the nicest of old southern melodies. The highlight of the company, Charles Frink, strums out the old songs specially well. J. C. Nugent is a passive sort of monologist who arouses a lot of interest. No more entertaining pair than Thomas F. Swift and Mary H. Kelley can be found. Their latest comedy skit, "Gum Drops," is a delightfully breezy affair. And when it comes to clowning is there any who can quite equal Bert McRae? His drop from the flies to the stage is very funny. Other acts on the bill are: Florence Henry & Co., Wheeler & Potter, and the Hurleys.

THE OWL THEATRE

Today's performances are the last for the screen classic, "A Tale of Two Cities," by Charles Dickens, now playing the Owl theatre. With William Farnum as the star and William Fox as the producer it is needless to say that it is one of the season's artistic literary sensations. No expense was spared in cast and settings or locations for the production and the story has been carefully followed. School children will find it a big help in their study of the author's work. It will be shown at 2.30, 5.30 and 9 p. m. today. A pleasing program of incidental music has been arranged by Mr. Hemlock, the leader of the orchestra. Nor is this all. Don't overlook the added attraction, Henry H. Walthall, the star of "Birth of a Nation," in the "Long Arm of Mannister," from the novel by E. Phillips Oppenheim. Two big books, two big stars, Farnum and Walthall, both seven reel productions and a Fox sunshine comedy, "Hungry Lions and Tender Hearts," in two parts. Make a resolution now, don't miss this bill today to do so will be to regret it. The performances are continuous and night patrons arriving by 7.25 will see the entire show.

BOOZE! SO NEAR

AND YET SO FAR

WASHINGTON, March — Here's a little manual entitled "First Aid to the Thirsty." It is compiled from the facts supplied by Prohibition Commissioner Kramer, the Prohibition Repeal association officials and the Anti-Saloon League of America.

Cuba—The largest liquor reservoir near the "Great American Desert." Saloons are open day and night, seven days and seven nights a week. Drinks cost about twice as much as they did in the United States before the war and hotel rooms cost $16 a day.

Bermuda—Not so lively as Cuba, but only three days from New York. No laws against intoxication.

Quebec—The only damp spot in Canada.

Lower California—Many Mexican states are dry, but Lower California is ruled by a man who doesn't believe in prohibition. It isn't expensive and they have all kinds of drinks here.

Central America—Plenty.

South America—No Sunday closing except in Bolivia and in Chile, where liquor cannot be sold between midnight and 6 a. m. Chilian state chemists watch breweries and distilleries to guarantee the purity of the output. Peruvian bars are closed both Saturdays and Sundays.

SOUTH AFRICA HAS INDUSTRIAL PEACE

By EDWARD M. THURRY

With Smithsonian-Universal African Expedition

JOHANNESBURG—Capital in South Africa either is so lucky in dealing with labor that it doesn't need brains, or else so brainy it doesn't need luck.

With the rest of the world stewing in labor troubles, South Africa has industrial peace.

Big industry, of which gold mining and diamond mining are greatest, have been practically untouched by labor unrest.

What would you do, Mr. Employer, if you had 999 employees and you only had to pay 100 of them an average of $7.50 a day and the other 899 only had to be paid 50 to 75 cents a day and provided with food and lodging costing only 12 to 15 cents a day?

That's the labor situation in South Africa. Yet, capital is gloomy. Most of the agitation now going on comes, not from labor, but from capital. There has been a government inquiry into the low-grade labor question.

Mine-owners, pleading that the cost of gold production in low-grade mines yielding a low percentage of gold per ton has gone up so high, are trying to have the color bar lifted.

The color bar is a law prohibiting natives from holding jobs as gang bosses or foremen in mines or jobs requiring skill.

The white man in the mines owes his position to monopoly. His task is to direct the labor of his gang of natives who are debarrred by law from competing with him, however capable they may be—and sometimes are.

While trouble does not appear imminent, South African students of the situation declare that the artificial position created by the fact that the color of a man's skin and not his efficiency decides whether he shall be paid $7.50 a day—even as high as $15 a day—or half a dollar a day with meager food and lodging, is a condition that cannot be permanent.

Mine operators want to raise the color bar, but they don't think much of the idea of raising the natives to the white wage standard.

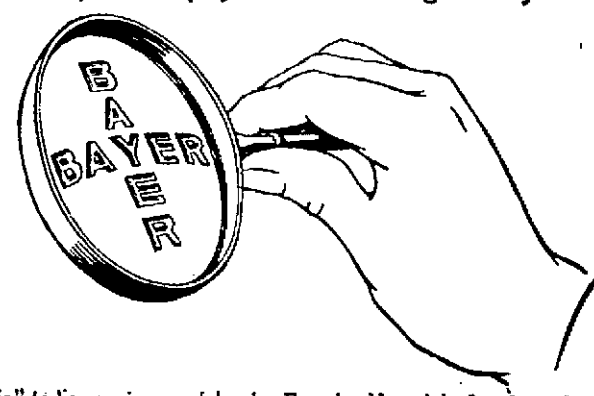

Capital, in support of the latter contention, points to a report of the economic commission that with pay at only $3.75 a day, 41 out of 52 gold mines would have to shut down and the remaining 11 would operate at very reduced profits.

Near Valdosta, Ga., there is a lake three miles long and three-quarters of a mile wide, with an average depth of 12 feet, which disappears every three or four years, and then comes back again.

NAME "BAYER" ON GENUINE ASPIRIN

"Bayer" introduced Aspirin to physicians over eighteen years ago

"Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" to be genuine must be marked with the safety "Bayer Cross." Then you are getting the true, world-famous Aspirin, prescribed by physicians for over eighteen years. Always buy an unbroken package of "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" which contains proper directions to safely relieve Colds, Headache, Toothache, Earache, Neuralgia, Lumbago, Rheumatism, Neuritis, Joint Pains, and Pain generally. Remember "Bayer" means genuine! Say "Bayer." Handy tin boxes of twelve tablets cost but a few cents. Druggists also sell larger packages. Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid.

LEAGUE COUNCIL TO MEET IN PARIS

PARIS, March 2. French wireless service.—The League of Nations council will hold its next meeting in Paris on March 1. Organization of the commission which is to investigate conditions in Russian will be taken up, it is understood. The first number of the official organ of the League of Nations has just been issued. This brochure contains the covenant of the league, a list of the nations which have already ratified the treaty of Versailles, the letters of adherence to the covenant from the states invited to join and the process verbal of the first session of the league council, besides that of the international labor council's first meeting. The booklet, which was printed in London, is in both French and English.

BIG STRIKE IN SOUTH AFRICA SETTLED

JOHANNESBURG, Union of South Africa, March 2.—The strike among the native workers in the Crown Gold mines, in the Rand, which has been in progress for some time, has been settled. There had been complaint among the men of unjust treatment because of political opinions, but the executive body of the miners has expressed itself as satisfied that there will be difficulty on this account in the future. During the strike, which gave signs late last week of beginning to collapse, thousands of the men returning to their work, there was no disorder up to Sunday, when a contingent of mounted riflemen was forced to charge a crowd in rescuing two policemen who had been stoned by natives. Later stones were thrown at a party of whites on their way to a cemetery, this resulting in a fight in which two natives were killed. The troubles were finally put to an end by patrols.

N. Y. PAYS $3,000,000 TO REMOVE SNOW

NEW YORK, March 3.—Street Cleaning Commissioner MacSlay announced today that although nearly $3,000,000 has been spent in removing snow that fell a month ago, six hundred miles of streets in outlying sections of the city have not been cleared, while 400 miles in Manhattan, Brooklyn and the Bronx have not been entirely cleared. Street cars are still tied up in parts of Manhattan and Brooklyn. At least 50 miles of streets in congested portions of the city have not even been opened. MacSlay estimated that it would take a month more to complete the removal of snow unless the weather should be unusually warm.

DRY AGENTS WIN OUT

NEW YORK, March 3.—Government agents were victorious in the first pitched battle in New York resulting from enforcement of the prohibition law, and today the victors triumphantly turned over to the customs authorities 537 bottles of cognac seized aboard the Italian steamship Presidente Wilson. Beset on all hands by a sullen crew, who switched off the lights far down in the ship's interior and smashed bottles by flinging heavy pieces of iron, a half dozen men from the office of Thomas E. Rush, inspector of the port finally bore the liquor off the ship.

FIGHT TO DEPRIVE EX-KAISER OF FORTUNE

BERLIN, Tuesday, March 2.—The fight to deprive the former emperor of his properties and fortune began in earnest today, when the motion of the majority socialistists of the diet to refer the issue to the national assembly precipitated an acrimonious debate. The majority socialistists vied with the independents in denunciation of the former ruler, in an effort to defeat the proposed settlement by accomplishing the confiscation of the Hohenzollern possessions. This would be done through constitutional amendment, voting the former emperor a fixed sum for his maintenance.

Deputy Graef, a majority socialist, declared that the ex-ruler had failed to live up to the historic precedents of his race. He had not died at the head of his troops. He chose instead, the deputy continued, a midnight flight to Holland, where "he is now promulgating a new saving word."

The deputy expressed doubt as to whether the former emperor had subscribed to war loans, as had been claimed, while his claim that he had been the guardian of peace, had been disproved by his continuous rattling of the sword and proclamations of the mailed fist.

The democrats and the clericals joined in voting for the government's measure, providing that the settlement be referred to the committee of judiciary.

The judiciary committee now takes the bill under advisement and conferences are expected to last many weeks.

The motion of the majority socialistists providing for action by the national assembly has been temporarily tabled.

SALE OF FENWAY PARK POSTPONED

BOSTON, March 3.—Sale at auction of Fenway Park, home grounds of the Boston American League Baseball club, advertised for today, was postponed a week as a result of court proceedings brought by President H. H. Frazee. Subsequently Frazee said that his differences with former President J. P. Lannin probably would be settled out of court within a day or two.

Lannin claims that President Frazee has failed to pay a note of $262,000 given as part payment for the club. When Frazee was heard in court today on a bill in equity to prevent the sale of the grounds to satisfy this claim, the court suggested the postponement of the sale, and Frazee agreed to deposit $250,000 with the court as security.

President Frazee disclaimed, as unfounded rumors that a deal for sale of the club to local interests was pending.

The Central Trades and Labor council of Reno and Sparks, Nev., have voted to stop making wage demands and to concentrate their future efforts on the reduction of living costs.

Jewett's Bill Gets Third Reading—Final Reading on Corbett Bill

(Special to The Sun)
STATE HOUSE, Boston, March 2.—The Jewett bill providing for the appointment of a bi-partisan election commission was ordered to a third reading in the house yesterday afternoon without debate or opposition.

The senate gave a final reading, without opposition, to the Corbett bill providing that chauffeurs in the police department shall have the same rights as to retirement that are allowed to others of the department.

The senate refused to reject resolutions favoring the repeal of restrictions on the freedom of speech, freedom of the press and the right of free assembly, and apparently indicated its purpose to adopt the resolutions today.

Senator Finkel of Boston, sponsor for the resolutions, agreed to eliminate certain phraseology to which the committee on federal relations had objected, and with the objectionable language eliminated the committee will not oppose the resolutions further.

In the form of their probable adoption, the resolutions read:

"Resolved, that in view of the ratification of the peace treaty by a majority of the allied countries and the virtual ending of the great war, so happily consummated, the general court declares its belief that the time has now come for the repeal and removal of all restrictions imposed for the duration of the war on the freedom of speech, the freedom of the press and the right of the people peaceably to assemble."

The words to be eliminated follow immediately after the word "people," without punctuation. They are:

"Freely for such purposes as they desire; and the restitution to the sovereign people of all their traditional Anglo-Saxon liberties, the restraint of which was temporarily necessitated by reason of the exigencies of the great war."

"Resolved, that the general court herewith proclaims and records itself to be firmly of the opinion that complete restoration of such liberties will do much to quiet the prevailing unrest and discontent."

By a vote of 21 to 67, the house re-

used to substitute for an adverse committee report a bill to regulate further the cold storage of eggs. Mr. Glazier of Hudson, opposing the bill, quoted officials of the state department of health as having said that eggs properly frozen will keep well for three or four years.

The senate accepted adverse reports on bills providing that children in the public schools be given instruction in accident prevention, and also on the bill providing that the continuation school law, adopted in many cities last fall, shall not become operative for two years.

Another adverse report accepted in the senate was that on the bill requiring private corporations to pension on half pay any employee after 25 years of continuous service.

The committee on constitutional amendments filed adverse reports on proposed amendments of the constitution providing for biennial sessions of the general court; for regulation of the right to strike; for limitation of the erection of buildings according to their use or construction; and that all proposed amendments of the federal constitution be submitted to the people before ratification by the legislature.

LOWELL TEACHERS HOLD ANNUAL MEETING

The censorship committee of the Lowell Teachers' organization submitted its report through Miss Fisher, yesterday, at the annual meeting of the organization held in high school hall. Officers and directors for the coming year were elected and other business was transacted.

Miss Provancher spoke of the difficulty of keeping school children from the moving picture theatres. In localities such as the Green school where there are two picture houses she said that it was very hard to restrain the pupils from staying away from school and attending the show. She said that public opinion will be turned in favor of picture censorship by a publicity campaign in the near future.

Miss Lawrence stated that the chamber of commerce had sought the advice of the organization on many occasions, and when it was asked in regard to the city charter, Mr. Bennett, the first vice-president, who represents the teachers in the chamber of commerce, secured the postponement of the discussion.

Changes were made in the constitution of the organization. The meetings will be held on the second Wednesday of each month, and there will be a regular meeting in April. The membership fee was raised from $1 to $2.

The officers for 1929 are: Miss Caroline Downey, president; William Bennett and Miss Fannie H. Murphy, vice-presidents; Miss Katherine Kelly, secretary; Miss Ella M. Greene, treasurer; and Miss Genevieve Lawrence, Miss Anna T. McCarron, Miss Elizabeth H. Steele and Miss Marion Simpson, on the board of directors.

The meeting also set apart space in the records of the organization for memorials to the deceased members: James L. Melton, Miss Gertrude Ready, Miss Nellie T. O'Grady and Miss Ethel Cleaves.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

The following have been recently appointed as members of the executive committee of the local post of the American Legion: Charles A. Stevens, 377 Wilder street; Arthur Moran, 21 East Pine street; John J. Cullen, 12 Loring street; Stephen C. Garrity, 103 Bowers street; Frederick A. Estes, 715 Westford street; Stephen Kearney, city engineer; Robert Givhan, 215 Salem street; Eli B. Hurl, 125 Cross street; James P. McCready, 126 Bowers street; Luther W. Faulkner, Fairmount street; Joseph Christian, 53 Ludlum street; Rev. William T. Mahan, Sacred Heart church.

Jury Disagrees

ly before 5 a. m. by Foreman George Soule that progress was being made, he announced that he could stand it as long as the jurors could.

A short time later the foreman sent word that the jury had been unable to agree and after receiving the report informally, Judge Dunn announced that court was suspended until 10 a. m. at which time the jury was dismissed.

Burke and Bartley had long been friends, but quarreled shortly before the latter's death over liquor smuggling operations in which they had been engaged and which were financed with funds Burke had obtained as tax collector.

During the trial, it was reported that Burke, if acquitted would be re-arrested on charges of liquor smuggling and Deputy United States Marshal Eugene Harmon remained about

Nine to 3 for Conviction

The juryman reversed their opinions during which a dozen ballots were taken. It was understood on good authority. The first ballot was said to have shown they stood 2 to 3 for acquittal, while the final ballot was 9 to 3 for conviction.

The jurors assembled in the court room at 10 o'clock, and Judge Dunn spoke a few words to them, bidding the good-bye and telling them to get their money for services from the clerk.

The trial occupied exactly three weeks to an hour, having begun on Feb. 11. The cost to Somerset county including the expense of nine expert witnesses, was estimated at about $20,000. New records in the history of criminal jurisprudence in Maine undoubtedly were established by the Extensive liquor smuggling operations across the Canadian border a dozen miles north of Jackman, in an automobile at 8:15 that night and who an hour later claimed to the county medical examiner summoned to dress a wound in his leg that Bartley had shot him during a quarrel in front of Burke's residence, was suspected as soon as the body was located.

His formal arrest, however, did not take place until two weeks later, when he had recovered from his wound sufficiently to get out of doors and the county officials made a thorough investigation of all reports and theories a dozen miles north of Jackman, in which the two men had been engaged for 18 months, according to Burke's statements on the witness stand, involved a shortage of two or three thousand dollars in his accounts as tax collector.

Bartley's notes which Burke said he held to cover the amount of his share of the loss when 240 cases of whiskey were stolen and which the state's attorneys claimed were forged, were given as a motive for taking Bartley's life.

HIGHEST SALARIED WOMAN IN AMERICAN BUSINESS

LIFE GIVES SIX RULES FOR WINNING SUCCESS

SIX REQUISITES OF SUCCESS

- I. Pick your job.
- II. Learn everything possible connected with it.
- III. Look ahead—develop "vision."
- IV. Don't try to do everything yourself.
- V. Head up—smile—and don't rush.
- VI. Don't try to be a man!

Controls Destinies

At a well-cleared desk in an office on the twenty-third floor sits the moving spirit not only of the building, but of the great company which the building symbolizes—Henrietta F. H. Reid, America's highest-salaried executive, otherwise assistant to the president of the Bush Terminal Co. company. Miss Reid is who controls the business destinies of some 1,000 people who work under her guidance.

To say Miss Reid is a success is to make a pitifully inadequate expression of her swift, consistent rise from the humblest of humble newspaper reporters to her position as highest-salaried woman executive in America—the real heart and soul of a $2,000,000 enterprise.

Time to Be Friendly

One might expect to find in that richly furnished, cozy, unbusiness-like office on the twenty-third floor a woman wearing mannish clothes, her hair done tightly on her head, and brusque, "business" mannerism. Not so. Instead is found a dignified but womanly woman, her feminine charms enhanced by an unusual cape-like garment that keeps her costly clothes fresh and clean, a toque cap on her head and a friendly hand and a hospitable smile ready to greet her visitor.

And, at once he has the feeling that Miss Reid, in spite of her distinction, her business, and the world of care that rests on her shoulders is as much

The Bush Terminal Building and Miss Reid, its "heart and soul."

Interested in him, whoever he may be, as he is in her. And therein lies the secret of her success—for through her interest in people and not things, she has made the Bush Terminal Co. the living, vital thing that it is.

Requisites For Success

With a quickness that leaves no doubt as to her decided opinions, Miss Reid answers the query as to what she considers the six requisites for the success of a woman in business:

"First, I should say a requisite to success is picking the thing you are best suited to do. So many girls read a magazine story and then apply for a place as private detective when they know nothing of the qualifications for that place.

"Second, learn everything that can possibly be connected with the place you have, or the place you want. If you go to school to train you for that work, go to the school as you would go to work—decidedly in earnest.

"Third, learn too, ahead, and gain most important factor in real success.

"Fourth, learn to delegate details to other people and don't try to do everything yourself. Most women fail because they try to do a 100 per cent job themselves, instead of allowing others to do things in a more efficient way.

"Fifth, keep your head up, a smile on your face, and don't rush. Mad rushing about and habitual business is the worst thing in the world to destroy real efficiency.

"Sixth, don't try to be a man. Just be a woman and be proud of it, because women are capable of every mental energy that men are."

Not "Snap" Judgments

It was Miss Reid's ability to answer questions quickly and decisively that first attracted Irving T. Bush and led him to select Miss Reid as his assistant.

When she was first called in to counsel those who control the destinies of the Bush Terminal Co., there were those who were inclined to disagree with what they called her "snap judgments." But those "snap judgments" were so unfailing right, that they soon were so unfailingly right that they soon about what she said before she said it, but thought like lightning.

which fact materially aided in the effectiveness of the reading.

Rep. Corbett said in opening that he had come to read the bill solely upon the solicitation of the chamber of commerce and that he had no political or personal axe to grind. "My mind is wide open for the consideration of fair criticism," he said, "and I gladly welcome any suggestions for modification or addition which I feel the people as a whole favor."

The legislator finished reading the bill at 9:10 o'clock and subsequently announced that he was perfectly willing to answer any fair questions regarding the intent or phraseology of any section.

Supt. of Police Redmond Welch questioned as to the exact interpretation of the section which aims to give the mayor the appointing power of a police superintendent and other officers of the department yearly and inquired particularly as to whether the superintendent would have the protection of the civil service laws. He likened the police department in its protection to the city to the federal army in its service to the nation and asked Mr. Corbett where he thought the American army in France would have landed if Gen. Pershing had come up annually for re-election.

Rep. Corbett stated most emphatically that he firmly believes in healthy rotation in public office. "I do not believe," he said, "that department heads should be so protected by civil service laws that they cannot be reached even though they be inefficient. It is the intention of democratic government that there shall be this healthy rotation."

The police chief reiterated his belief that a man in his office should have the fullest protection afforded by the civil service and pointed out that in the latter laws was a specific clause which says that a man may be removed from office on the presentation of adequate cause.

James Dacey spoke in opposition to the same section in the charter, relative to the annual appointment of a police chief.

Mr. Corbett said that the superintendent of police was not the head of the department at all and that he could not make a move under the present charter without first seeking the approval of the mayor. He asked Superintendent Welch if that was not so and the latter replied in the affirmative.

Mr. Corbett said he had no objection to an amendment which gave the mayor the appointing power, subject to the confirmation by the council.

"Let me say again," continued Mr. Corbett, "that I am here for no political reasons and with no grudge to settle or axes to grind. I have fathered a new charter for the city of Lowell simply because I believe a change is desired. All you have to do is to look back to the last state election when approximately 600 votes were cast in favor of another type of charter to see the feeling of dissatisfaction."

"I do not say that this charter is a perfect instrument, by any means. I am open to discussion and conviction. If you do not take this charter, however, it will not be long before you will have another before you for consideration, perhaps worse than this one. I have no selfish motives involved and will be only too glad to accept any amendment desired by people really interested. If this charter is rejected I will fully co-operate with any one who submits another bill for your approval."

Fred C. Weld expressed the belief that the city does not need a new charter, but rather, good men to run for office and a city finance commission. He did not believe it wise to turn back to a governing body of 15 members and called attention to many defects in the old style of government, with a common council and board of aldermen.

Mr. Corbett said several things have been pushed through the municipal council during the reign of the present charter which would have been impossible with a larger governing body. Familiar ghosts walked again in the guise of the proposed new high school, contagious hospital and memorial auditorium. The legislator said the hospital could have been built several years ago for a sum not more than $10,000, compared to the present buildings erected at a cost of $300,000.

Daniel Carroll spoke in defense of the isolation hospital and called Mr. Corbett's attention to the fact that the old hospital considered called for only one building, with 20-odd beds for contagious patients, whereas the present plant includes several buildings and space for 100 beds, with wonderful facilities for the care of tuberculous patients. He said he believed the money has been well expended.

Pers. Goodell and Rep. Corbett thanked the audience for courteous attention and interest and the meeting was adjourned shortly after 10 o'clock.

CARLISLE SNOW-BOUND

—Pheasants Search For Food at Back Doors

The snow of the past week has buried the town of Carlisle beneath drifts from eight to ten feet deep, and the entire section looks like a low lying level field of white. The road are in such condition that it is almost impossible for horses to get about, and those living at any distance from the centre are obliged to use snow shoes or skis in their travelling. The farmers of Carlisle are complaining of the lack of grain and feed for their stock caused by the stringent freight tie-up, and also state that they are short of coal. Butchers and fish men who used to sell from carts on the roads cannot reach anywhere near the town. Many days townspeople have not had even a delivery of mail and have had no newspapers.

The schools, reopening after a long forced vacation, were obliged to close again and church authorities could not hold services. The birds scrooped around the town building in search of food and pheasants became so bold from want of food that they even went up into the yards and to the steps of the houses. The snow on the roads is so deep and caked so hard that it will require many men and considerable expense to clear them.

A few drops of peroxide of hydrogen in an acetylene lamp will increase the brilliancy of the light.

PAPER BACKING

FOR PICTURES

To paste new paper backings on framed pictures the paper, cut to the proper size, should first be coated in a pan of water until it is entirely wet. The paste should be applied to the frame, and the paper, from which the actual drops of water have been wiped, should be pressed into place upon the frame. As the paper dries it will shrink, making a smoothly stretched backing.

Wigs were worn by the Egyptians and Syrians.

PASTOR RE-ELECTED

SALARY INCREASED

Rev. John M. Singleton, for several years pastor of the Lawrence Street Primitive Methodist church which was recently destroyed by fire, was unanimously re-elected to the pastorate at the annual business meeting of the church members held in the Riverside school Monday evening. He was also voted an increase of $300 in salary and will be permitted a two-day leave each week to attend the Gordon Bible college in Boston.

Officers and trustees elected were: C. W. Moore, moderator; E. N. Kimball, clerk; C. F. Downey, treasurer; A. Rule, E. Brooks, R. Catherwood, T. Wilde, C. Grant and Rev. John M. Singleton, trustees. The finance board elected was: John Buchanan, chairman; Alice Downey, clerk; Anne Hill, Albert Catherwood and E. D. Cole. John Buchanan was also chosen to fill the place on the building committee made vacant by the death of Jacob Wallace. Reports were presented showing that the financial condition of the church is excellent. It was announced that the building committee will commence work on the reconstruction of the church as soon as the weather permits.

Proposed New Charter Read and Discussed at Chamber of Commerce Meeting

Three hundred members of the Lowell chamber of commerce heard Representative Thomas J. Corbett read his new charter bill in Memorial hall last evening and during a discussion of which followed a number of men rose to interrogate the author of the measure as to the intent of this and that section and in two or three instances amendments were offered and graciously accepted by Mr. Corbett.

It was not intended by the chamber when planning the meeting that a discussion of the charter pro and con should occur. It was the belief that many people in the city did not thoroughly understand the proposed charter, and the assembly was for educational purposes only. No action was taken or any records kept of the progress of the meeting.

Despite the wish to steer clear of criticism of the present charter and lay the entire stress of the meeting upon a careful consideration of the instrument which Rep. Corbett has designed to supplant the governing code now in use, questions opened up avenues of debate which were painted with a distinct political color, although the discussion was free from personalities.

It is safe to say that the meeting was most profitable and that those in attendance left the hall considerably enlightened upon the charter bill, in question.

President William N. Goodell presided and following a brief outline of the purpose of the assembly, introduced Rep. Corbett as the principal speaker. The latter took up the bill, section by section, with only a slight interruption here and there until he had finished. Each man and the two women present had a copy of the bill.

A Home Treatment for Asthma

Makes Breathing Easy

A Worcester, Mass., doctor has suggested the following simple, harmless and inexpensive home treatment for bronchial asthma, chronic bronchitis and coughs and colds which threaten to affect the lungs.

At Lowell Pharmacy and Liggett's or any reliable drug store get a bottle of Oxidase (essential oil) tablets and slowly dissolve one tablet in mouth at regular intervals. Though harmless and pleasant they are so powerful in their action that even in stubborn cases relief often comes in just a few minutes.

Many users who for years have been obliged to sit up in bed gasping for breath and unable to sleep report that they now take an Oxidase tablet when going to bed and can then lie down and breathe easily and naturally and get a good night's restful sleep. Druggists everywhere are selling Oxidase tablets on a positive guarantee to refund the full purchase price of the first package if it fails to give prompt relief in any case of Bronchial Coughs or Asthma.—Adv.

Folks Late For Supper—

Bargain Hunter Peeved—

Girl Loses Rubber

Lots of Chelmsford folks had to sit down to a cold supper last evening, but it wasn't wife's fault. Just a combination of unforeseen circumstances;
that's all. It happened this way:Chelmsford commuters were packed sardine-fashion in a Chelmsford bound street car which left Merrimack square about 6 o'clock—which, by the way, is nothing new for Chelmsford commuters, who have been telling the world for many moons that the street car company should either make the cars larger or run 'em oftener.Everything was as lovely as a vacation in Florida until the car had reached the half-way point and stopped to allow a woman to alight, along with her consignment of assorted bargains.
She must have been some bargain hunter, too. If one were to judge from the number of parcels which she was juggling.And bargain hunter averred that she positively—she said nothing of absolutely—could not ante up the necessary ten cents until she had reached the ground, which would have been all to the merry if she hadn't fished a ten dollar note on the hard-working conductor.Conductor was short of change, as he afterwards explained, and it took more than a few seconds before the financial

BATTLING NELSON HAS A FINE RECORD
LOWELL MAKES GAIN BY BEATING "TIGERS"

Battling Nelson of Brooklyn, who boxes Paul Doyle of Boston at the Crescent A. A. tomorrow night, has the distinction of never having been knocked off his feet. This is considered some achievement, when one considers that he has met such terrific hitters as Mike O'Dowd, Harry Greb, George Chis, Joe Chip, Jack McCarthy, Marty Cross, Frank Carbone, Soldier Barfield, Fred Dyer, Ted Lewis and K. O. Brennan.

While Nelson has never appeared here, fans have read much about him. He is regarded one of the most satisfactory fighters in the game at Providence, where he has met Young Douglas, Red Allen and Soldier Barfield. In those bouts he never stopped tearing and was just as active in the final rounds as in the opening stanza. Doyle reads no introduction to local fans. He has appeared here and his work has been very satisfactory. He has met Young Kloby, Benney Leonard, and many other prominent fighters and has yet to hear the fatal ten. His bout with Kloby was considered one of his best and while the decision was given to the Lawrence boxer, the referee who made the award, has not appeared in a ring since. In the matching of Doyle and Nelson fans will see the opposite types of boxers. Nelson is a brawling, brawling fighter, who can take and give heavy punishment. Doyle is a clever, heady and fast moving boxer and also carries a good punch.

Al Diamond and Billy Murphy will meet in an eight-round number, while Buddy Dolan of Lawrence and Harry A. Chung of Salem will meet in the other eight-round event. Young Christie and Young Stone will meet in a six-round event.

CADDOCK AND

NEW YORK, March 3.—Earl Caddock of Iowa, former heavyweight wrestling champion, threw Salvador Chevalier, the French boxer, with a head scissor and arm lock in 58 minutes and 11 seconds at Madison Square Garden here last night.

The contest preceded a match between Stranger Lewis and Jim London. Chevalier weighed 200 pounds, 14 more than his opponent. The Frenchman was the aggressor during the greater part of the first half-hour. He was in difficulty twice later but each time defeat was delayed when the men went off the mat and, under agreement, assumed neutral positions. Six minutes before the finish Caddock obtained a scissor and tried to pin his man with an arm lock. Chevalier wriggled out, but only to fall victim to the same "Strangler" Ed Lewis of Kentucky, threw Jim London, the Greek champion, with a head lock in two hours, four minutes and 43 seconds.

Lewis weighed 220 pounds, an advantage of 27 pounds. London more than made up this handicap with surprising strength and agility. Lewis went through the ropes four times in the reporters' table and frequently bounded against the ropes in escaping his opponent's attack.

Fred Jean's Fall River "Tigers" made a good start last night, when Stove Pierce, the speedy rush, got the jump on the opening whistle, won the race to the spot and hammered the pill into the set in just two seconds, the fastest goal of the local season, but Lowell came to the front before the period ended and maintained the lead to the finish. The final score was Lowell 6, Fall River 3.

A good sized crowd assembled at the Crescent rink for the game, many expecting a repeat of the excitingly contested game played by the same teams at Fall River last Wednesday night. It required overtime to determine the winner in that contest, with Fall River getting the deciding goal after eight minutes of play.

Lowell was out to reverse the result, and it was apparent early in the night, that the Hawks crew would accomplish their purpose. Griffith and Doherty proved efficient obstructionists, and had the visiting rushers well in hand at all times. Perkins and Davies worked artistically out in front, while Pierce played a great game in goal, and his expert kicking had a big part in Lowell's success.

Pierce was the star for the visitors and his playing made a hit with the fans. He's a fast skater, a good floor worker, and a fine driver. He scored two of Fall River's goals and the other three. His first came from the spot, his second was the feature of the night. He took a long, high drive from Jean, while standing to the side of the cage and reached up and deflected the ball into the nets. He scored the only goal of the third period and it came after heavy work.

NEW BEDFORD, March 3.—In the victory, 8 to 4, scored here last night, the local team over Brockton, Welch, a local amateur, won the game.

His work, which included six of the registers made by the Whalers, was the feature of the contest. O'Brien worked hard during the game and Duggan went to center while Wiley played on the rush line for Brockton.

GAMES TONIGHT
Providence at Brockton
Six minutes before the finish Caddock obtained a scissor and tried to pin his man with an arm lock. Chevalier wriggled out, but only to fall victim to the same "Strangler" Ed Lewis of Kentucky, threw Jim London, the Greek champion, with a head lock in two hours, four minutes and 43 seconds.

POLO NOTES
The New Bedford Whalers will play here Friday night.

Pierce worked fast all the way and turned in high class exhibition. He got all of the visitors' goals.

Lowell gained on the leaders by last night's victory.

As this is the final week in which trades or exchanges may be made, all owners are making the best of their opportunities. The league rule states that no trades can be made during the last six weeks of the season.

Muirhead who joined Worcester this week played a fine game for the "Jiggers" against Providence last night.

Dick Donnelly of Worcester may join the Brockton club, as O'Brien will probably be out of the game for the rest of the season.

Duffness played well for New Bedford last night. He will come here with the Whalers on Friday night.

Pierce's goal in two seconds was the start of last night's game was the fastest one scored here this season.

Pierce is now setting the pace among the goal leaders. He's a very consistent performer and his work last night had an important bearing on the Lowell victory.

Griffith had Pierce pretty well covered last night. The Lowell center is in a class by himself when it comes to trailing the league's speedy rushers.

Harkins and Davies are working like a machine and their passing, hooking and driving could hardly be improved upon.

Cusick was attacked by a fan, "riding" on Harkins' back, and the Iron Man made a punch at the fan. Players intervened and no damage was done. A foul on Cusick was called.

EBB IN AUSTRALIA

By R. M. STEVENS
(N.E.A. Correspondent in Australia)
SYDNEY.—The heavyweight boxing situation in Australia is most unsatisfactory and requests by any of the present roughhouse crowd for a meeting with Jack Dempsey, the world's heavyweight champion, would be considered by the Australian public as a joke. Australians are not crazy over what Dempsey can do in the ring, but Australian ring work, especially among the heavierweights, is generally regarded as a joke.

It looks unlikely that another Peter Jackson, Bob Fitzsimmons, Frank Gavin, or Joe Gold will be produced out of the public's mind. The reason for the slump in the game out here is clear. Today any old thing does for the public. The reason for the slump in the game out here is clear. Today any old thing does for the public.

Second Raters
Only a few days ago a tenth rater in the business "Chuck" Welch, a light heavyweight from Indianapolis, who was brought to Australia a couple of months ago by Tom Andrews, hampered the local scene.

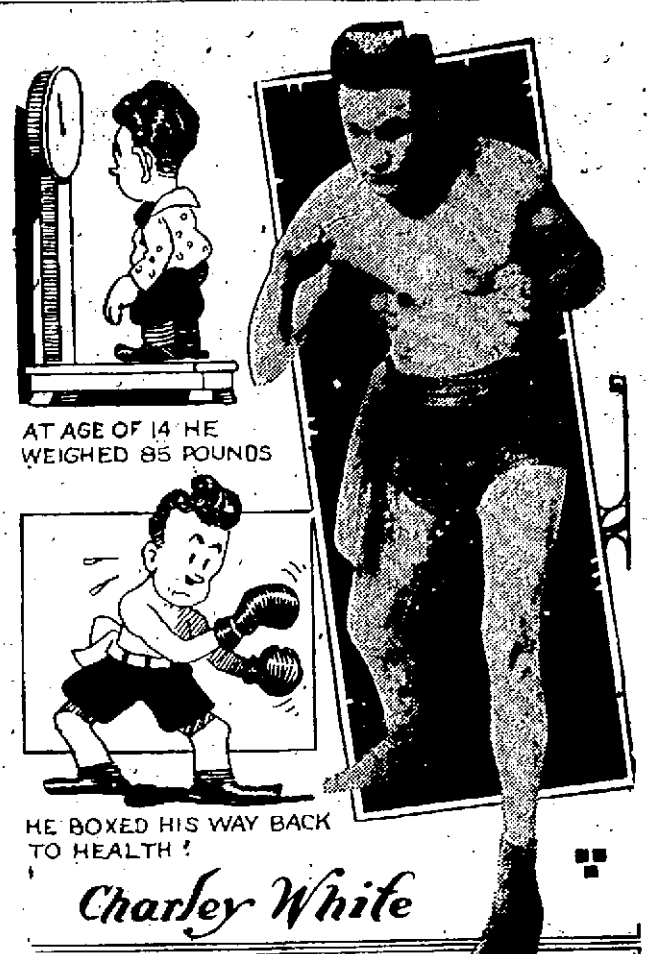

Edwards Good
The lightweight champion of Australia, the American who is now a former holder of Lonsdale belt, championship of England, is a wonderfully powerful and fast fighter.

PRIFIERS BUSH BASEBALL
Another major league player prefers amateur baseball to the footlights of the big top. Chick Gandil of the White Sox will manage a team at St. Anthony, Idaho, this summer. The baseball team will have a show up at Brownsville, Tex., for training.

FRESH SIAT MENA
The boxing commission at Portland, Ore., has decided to build a boxing arena that will seat 10,000 people. It will have plush-covered seats.

CARDUS SIGN CANADIAN
Branch Ricketts' eyes are far. He looked up the record of Outfielder Edward Bogart of the Regina, Sask., club in the Western Canadian league, and made terms with him to show up at Brownsville, Tex., for training.

MAY TOUR AUSTRALIA
An offer to tour Australia has been received by Leo Schuler, Peoria featherweight, from Tom Andrews. The Milwaukee promoter has just returned from a successful trip to the Antipodes and is going back soon.

Charley White

TO BECOME DOCTOR

Thirteen years ago a Chicago physician advised a sickly 14-year-old boy to go to Denver, Col., where there is hope for tuberculosis to regain the thread of life that is slipping from them. The boy did not go. He could not, for he was poor.

Instead he went to a gymnasium and began to take moderate exercise. One day he put on the boxing gloves. Little did he think that he would ever make the glove game his profession. He was seeking for health—not fame. At that time his frail, little body weighed 85 pounds.

He became a clever boxer. There wasn't any sting in his punches, so he had to be clever from being pulverized by sturdier boys. Then time and the laws of nature began to assert themselves as the great healers.

He became a knockout puncher. The boy had developed a wonderful left hook that the other fighters couldn't figure out until the referee had counted 10 over their prostrate bodies. That was in 1913. He was a ring sensation.

This boy was none other than Charley White, who had five separate chances to win the lightweight crown of the world. It was at Milwaukee on May 24, 1914, that White had his first chance at the crown. He faced Willie Ritchie, the pride of Chicago, as White was then called by his admirers, had the champion in distress during the bout but failed to put him away with his wonderful left hook.

Freddie Welsh then relieved Ritchie of his laurels and White had another chance at the title in the same Milwaukee ring. But Welsh was very much on his feet at the end of the 10 rounds. The following year they were again rematched and Welsh was again the victor by a shade. New York promoters brought them together on July 2, 1915, at Brighton Beach, and again the Chicago fighter came near the coveted title, but failed to make his left hook deadly.

On September 4, 1916, followed that

Low Teller, the Philadelphia lightweight, hasn't forgotten how to top them with his deadly southpaw delivery. He dropped Allentown Dundee in two stanzas.

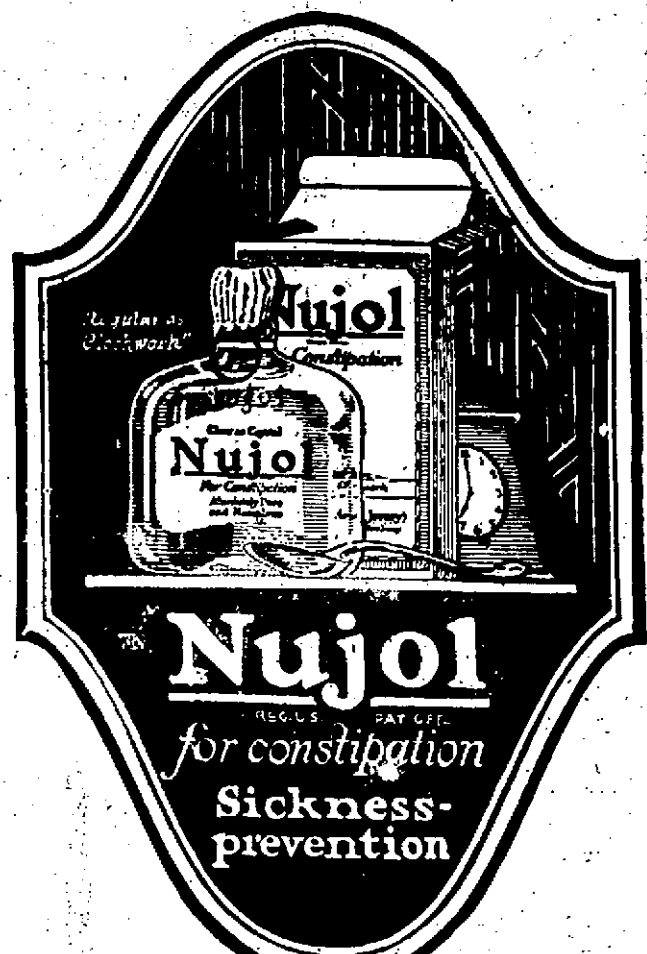

A standing invitation has been issued to all big league umpires to go south with the ball clubs. It is a good suggestion. The pitchers will frame up some sort of deceptive deliveries to beat the freak pitching rules and the umpires won't get wise until the season is well along unless they get an even break on training with the players.

Jack Kanner, Denver promoter, doesn't do all his matchmaking by wire or letter. He is in the east offering $30,000 for Leonard-Dundee match in Denver. That isn't such a small sized slice of coin either.

Baseball players will have to play pretty good ball if they live up to the kind of salaries they are asking.

RICHARDS CHAMPIONSHIP
BOSTON, March 3.—The national amateur billiards championship at 122 balls has been won by the title holder, David McAndrews of Chicago, and Percy Collins of the same city. With three days of play in the round robin tournament remaining, each has defeated all opponents, McAndrews having five victories to his credit and Collins four. The latter will play Julian Rice of New York tomorrow, and champion and principal challenger will meet in the final match Friday night.

"Columbia Six"—A Real Good Car.

TERRY MARTIN WINS
N. E. BANTAM TITLE

BOSTON, March 3.—Terry Martin of Providence won the Bantamweight championship of New England from Bobby Dyson of New Bedford by defeating him in their 12-round bout at Mechanics building last night. It was an interesting battle to watch, as there was a lot of action in every round.

Martin, who substituted for Memphis provided a surprise for most of the fans. He was slow starting and in the opening session Dyson shot many left hooks to his stomach and jaw, one of the punches staggering him a bit. He managed to let in a few rights to the body, but Dyson shot the better of such a margin that he looked then to be a sure winner.

Up to the seventh round it still looked good for Dyson. He landed many lefts to body and jaw and had the better of hot exchanges. Martin drove some rights under the heart that took a lot of pep out of Dyson. In the sixth he swung a hard left to his rival's jaw.

Beginning the seventh round Martin began to show to the front and for the rest of the battle had the better of the milling. In the eighth he had Dyson in a bad way from rights to the stomach and lefts and rights to the jaw. What blows Dyson landed were merely slaps.

In the ninth Martin again had Dyson in a bad way. In the 11th he floored Dyson in the last session caught him several times with rights to the face and stomach.

INTERCOLLEGIATE AIR RACES
NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 3.—Four men will be selected shortly at a meeting of former Yale aviators to represent the university in the intercollegiate air races, May 6 and 7. There are available for the team about 50 students who held commissions in the army, naval or marine corps flying service. D. S. Ingalls, of Cleveland, and Sumner Sewall of Bath, Me., seniors, are aces.

WILL CELEBRATE FEAST OF PURIM

With special services in all the synagogues of the city, Lowell Jews will celebrate the Feast of Purim this evening and tomorrow. In the homes the feast will be observed by serving special delicacies and by sending gifts to needy families.

This festival is associated in the synagogue with the reading of the Book of Esther. A mitzvah and at the same time semi-serious rendition of this biblical narrative was the traditional ceremonial rite of the festival. The miraculous escape of the people of Israel from a dire fate in the Persian empire, as told in this scriptural story, became in course of time a reflection of the very existence of the Jewish people whose lives were constantly in jeopardy.

The celebration of Purim was always in a mirthful vein. In the darkest period of Jewish history the feast of Purim served as an outlet for pent-up spirits to indulge in frolic and gaiety. The traditional attitude toward the feast of Purim is still retained among Jewish congregations who utilize the day for social enjoyments and as a means of remembering the needy and those in distress by sending them gifts.

Fortunes in Rubber

Industry has been revolutionized by the great war. The world demands greater production and better quality products, and is willing to pay almost any price to procure them. There is no other country so fitted to fill the demands of trade as America—but we must have more and larger factories in order to increase the supply of finished products. To build factories requires capital and as the banks are already doing all that they can for industry we must go to the people for finance and pay a liberal price for it.

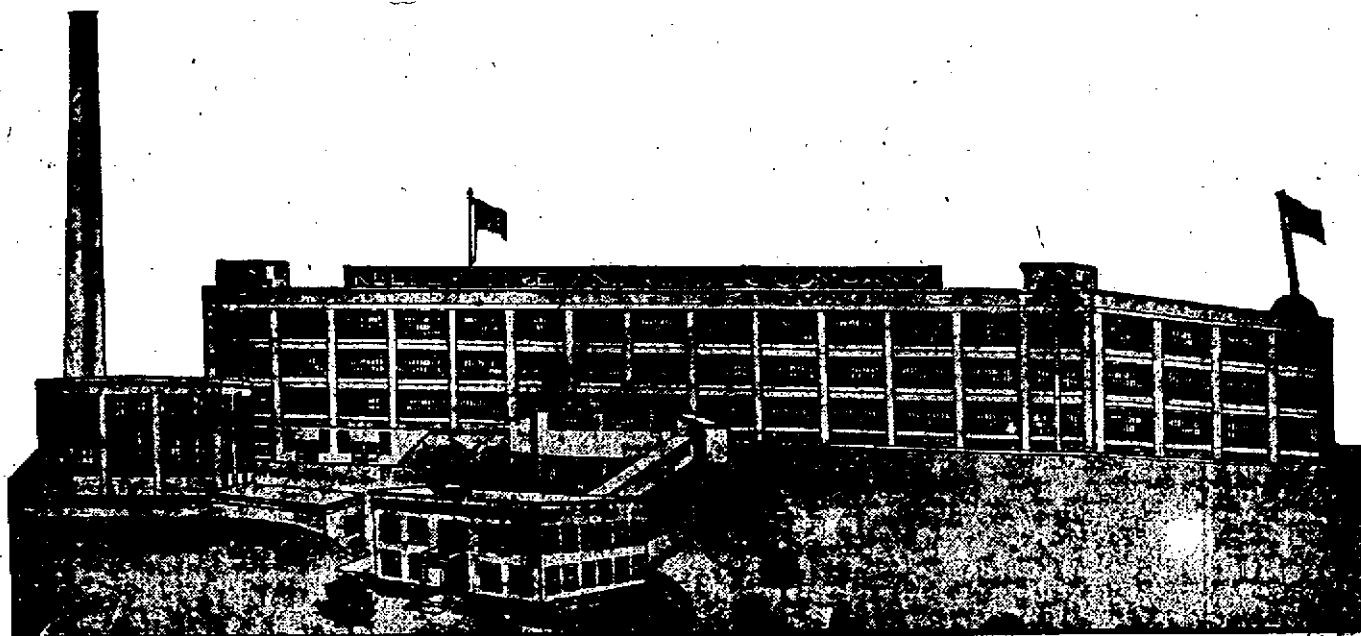

A Harvest For Investors

The world war which worked so many other great changes, brought about an increase in the investor class from a few hundred thousands to several millions in number. People who never knew what thrift was are now fortunate owners of Liberty Bonds and other securities. They now have an opportunity of subscribing to a stock that may properly be described as of phenomenal promise. They can now buy it at a price that allows them to secure ten, twenty or thirty shares for a relatively small outlay and they have the prospect of seeing their investment increased in value as other rubber stocks have done until it is worth many times the original investment.

HISTORY OF COMPANY

Since organization one year ago the company has largely financed itself without recourse to professional money lenders and by so doing are happily in a sound financial condition today. The company owns outright a large section of land on the main line of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad in West Haven, Conn., which is free from mortgages or other incumbrances. It has opened twenty sales and service stations in New England and is now selling Kelley "K" Tread Tires and Kelley Blue Tubes to the trade in sufficient quantity to pay running expenses and show substantial profit besides.

Ground has been broken for our new model Tire Factory and contracts have been let for its erection. It is expected that the plant will be completed and in operation by late spring. Orders have been given for $200,000 worth of machinery and equipment, one-third of the purchase price being paid in advance.

VIEW OF NEW PLANT OF KELLEY TIRE AND RUBBER CO.

OFFICERS

Edward J. Kelley, President, formerly one of the officials of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Major William F. Alcorn, General Counsel, member of Connecticut Bar 25 years, officer of National Guard and U. S. Army.

DIRECTORS

Edward J. Kelley, President Kelley Tire & Rubber Company.

Further finance is of course necessary to assure a future to the tire industry. This is needed for new sales and service depots, fabric, rubber stock, advertising, running expenses, etc.

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER ONCE SAID—
"Don't delay, get in while you can. The unwise man thinks that it's no good or it would not be offered to him."

Fortunes Have Been Made By Foresighted Investors in New Enterprises

They "got in on the ground floor" while others looked on and feared the outcome. It is almost impossible to trace the enormous profits received on the dollar of the original investor in the following inventions. Here are a few of the available figures that are reliable as far as we are able to ascertain:

RAILROAD STRIKES

Are railroad strikes justified? Read the following discussion of this question, remembering that what is said of strikes applies equally to lockouts, and then draw your own conclusions.

There is some talk of a great railroad strike in the air. The railroad brotherhoods have been disappointed in their efforts to defeat the bill by which the roads have been turned back to private ownership. The leaders know that a strike at this time would be ruinous to all concerned; but the rank and file are displeased and would strike regardless of the consequences if they were not restrained.

The time has arrived when workmen of all classes must get it out of their heads that it is the inalienable right of every class of employees to strike whenever or wherever they please. The exercise of that right, even by a small number of men in certain cases, might mean suffering and death to thousands. That is why this assumed right to strike under any and all circumstances is radically wrong. The policemen's strike in Boston was condemned by public opinion, although it was conceded that the strikers had grievances which should have been redressed. A strike by firemen would be more strongly condemned, because lack of fire protection leaves not only the property of the people but also their lives in danger of destruction.

It is necessary, therefore, in the interest of public safety, that the service of policemen and firemen be continuous and that strikes of such public servants be absolutely forbidden.

Public Interest First

It may be said in defense of strikes on railroads, that they are justified because the public is not so much dependent upon railroad service as upon the protection provided by firemen and policemen. That claim is groundless, as may readily be judged from our present mode of living. In Lowell, we are a city of factory workers. Our industries depend upon daily railroad shipments for their raw material and the ability to fill their orders. If the railroads were tied up for a single week, every mill and every factory in our city would be handicapped and would soon be forced to shut down.

How long could the working man with a family dependent upon him support his charge if he had no work to do and no wages coming in every week?

That man's family would be face to face with destitution within a very short time. But the tieup of the railroads would also cut off the source of supply of practically all the necessities of life, so that soon the people of all classes would be without food and fuel. Let that condition be extended over a large area and we shall have an illustration of the dire consequences of a railroad strike which would threaten the lives of the people and irreparable loss as a result of the paralyzing effect upon industry.

Millions Lost for 30 Cents

In this connection, it may be well to mention that, in most cases, the worst sufferers from labor strikes are the strikers and their families. We need not go out of Lowell for proof of this. The strike of the great Carpet mill, then the best mill in Lowell and the best carpet mill in the country, destroyed the industry, drove it out of Lowell in fragments, and saw a large portion of the machinery broken up for junk.

Who were the chief sufferers as a result of that strike? It is true that Young Agent Fairbanks died as a result, and the death of another official was attributed to that strike; but the strikers themselves were the main sufferers. There is no record of how many of them died as a result of the strike, how many were reduced from comfortable circumstances to abject poverty; how many had to seek employment in other cities, nor of the vast amount of wages lost in the long struggle, which was precipitated by hot-headed leaders on the one side and undiplomatic officials on the other.

Let it be remembered that the total amount involved in that strike was an allowance of thirty cents claimed by an operative, when the boss maintained the claim to be unjust. That strike caused a direct loss of several million dol-

dized adherents of the old regime. The allies failed, also, and have stopped their subsidies. The Bolsheviks believed success at home was dependent on the overthrow of anti-soviet governments abroad. But, Bolshevism is now in full control of European Russia and half of Siberia, though it has ceased to be a vital issue in any other country.

The allies thought organized government in Europe would cease to exist if the Bolsheviks were allowed to work their will in Russia. But, the more Bolshevism triumphed in Russia, the less has Europe's peace been threatened by anarchy.

The hardest thing in the world to recognize is an accomplished fact that disturbs a previous opinion. It has been hard for the Bolsheviks to recognize that the rest of the world isn't going to adopt the soviet form of government. It has been equally hard for the rest of the world to recognize that the Russian people want to continue their experiment with soviet rule.

But, the Bolsheviks at last are expressing a willingness to trade with middle-class countries and capitalists. At the same time, the allies are preparing to recognize the Moscow government when proof is forthcoming that the Bolsheviks have ceased to govern by terror. The proof is at hand. Russian dispatches have shown no terrorist news for a long time.

Russia and the rest of the world, therefore, are soon to enter into new relations. Each will let the other alone, politically. On that normal basis of international intercourse, each can supply the other's material needs with advantage to all concerned.—N.E.A.

PALMER'S CANDIDACY

Attorney General Palmer is the first democrat to declare himself a candidate for the presidency. Mr. Palmer has rendered excellent service in dealing with the radical element throughout the country and he may prove a strong candidate. It is announced, however, that other democratic candidates are to enter the field very quickly including ex-Speaker Clark, ex-Secretary Lansing, William G. McAdoo, James W. Gerard and Gov. Edwards of New Jersey. Mr. Hoover is not upon the democratic list inasmuch as his hostilities have been maneuvering to secure for him a place on the republican ticket.

The announcement of Mr. Palmer's candidacy has relieved the republicans of the dread that Pres. Wilson would seek a third term. Evidently the president is not desirous of breaking any more of the fixed customs of our government. He will doubtless be very glad to retire to private life when the end of his term arrives. Had he remained at home and devoted himself mainly to winding up the war, he might have escaped the physical infirmities that have come upon him. He undertook too much for a man of his years and undoubtedly with the best intentions. If he is able to write the history of which he spoke on his return from Europe, it will afford him pleasurable enjoyment for a few years at least.

THE RAILROADS

There will be much speculation for some time to come upon the effect of the transfer of the railroads to private ownership. The companies are not entirely satisfied with the terms and conditions of the transfer but we do not believe they have any right to complain. The increase of fares during the period of government control was 28 per cent. and of freight rates 34 per cent. The companies do not think that freight rates are sufficiently high in proportion to the cost of living. The government expended $1,163,000,000 on the roads during the two years of its control, and yet that amount proves to have been far from sufficient to meet all the needs of better equipment. The shortage of freight cars is particularly felt at this time and will have to be dealt with by the companies as best they can in the near future. The roads, however, are returned to private owners probably in better condition than when the government took charge of them so that it is now up to the companies to prove their claim of superior management.

The municipal budget for the year has been made up and the figures indicate roughly that there will be a very material increase in the tax rate. That was to be expected of course as a result of the increased cost of labor and material. The people will not complain of a higher tax rate provided they get a dollar's worth for every dollar expended.

SEEN AND HEARD

Perhaps it is not so much that is producing an unusually large crop of candidates.

In South Africa, as Ed Thierry writes, a native must pay 12 cattle for one wife, and it takes the wife the rest of her life to earn enough to get her husband back into the financial shape he was when he parted with the cattle.

"White Collar Men"

City Clerk W. J. Egan of Newark, N. J., gives out figures showing that only about one of every 100 men who apply for a marriage license in his town is a "white collar" man, such as clerk or bookkeeper. Egan believes the high cost of living is keeping the white-collar guys from embarking upon the wild seas of matrimony.

Medal for Judge

It isn't often a judge gets a medal pinned on him, is it? More frequently a judge gets scolded for doing this, or not doing that. Sometimes he gets defeated at election. He gets into court last and gets out first. He gets sore if you cheer the witness, and he gets puffed if you jeer the jury. He used to get a robe and wig and a bench to sit on, but now he gets recalled in some states. Often he gets reversed by a higher court. But that's not why he now gets this medal. (Of course, pin a medal on his honor!)

THANKFUL FOR HER HEALTH

Before Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Mrs. Penkey was Miserably Ill.

Ottawa, Ohio. "After the birth of my baby I was troubled with serious female trouble. At times I was so weak and nervous I could not stand it to hear my baby cry. I tried doctor's medicine with no results. At last a friend advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound which I did and am completely cured. I am thankful for your wonderful medicine and you can use my testimonial as you think best."
—Mrs. JOHN PENKEY, R. 3, Box 6, Ottawa, Ohio.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotics or harmful drugs, and today holds the record of being the most successful remedy we know for woman's ills. If you need such a medicine why don't you try it? Women who are suffering from displacements, irregularities, inflammation, ulceration, backache, sideache, headache, nervousness or "the blues" should not drag along from day to day without giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a trial.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

The death of John J. Nearney, better known as "Roger" Nearney, foreman in the street department, has called forth expressions of regret and eulogy from practically everybody connected with that branch of municipal activity. From Commissioner Dennis A. Murphy to the men who worked side by side with Roger day in and day out for many years sincere grief is felt at his passing. Mr. Nearney had been connected with the department for 40 years and for 39 years had been foreman. In 1917 he was appointed foreman of the city ledge and since then up to the time of his death he spent eight months out of each year directing this important branch of the department. Supt. John B. Blessington tells me that he was one of the most painstaking men in the employ of the city and that there was never any guesswork where Roger was concerned. If there was anything to be measured, it was measured and not guessed at. It was in the habit of carrying a little book in which various details connected with his work were jotted down and when he was assigned to a job his superiors could rest assured that it would be done properly. In his relations with the men who worked with him Roger was always the kindly adviser, never the loud-mouthed boss. He maintained discipline among his men in a quiet but effective manner. If there was any wrong doing the matter was settled right on the job and not carried to the ears of the men at the head of the department. In his family life Mr. Nearney again exhibited those characteristics that endeared him to all who knew him. His death means a big loss to Lowell's municipal service and, of course, an even greater loss to a loving family.

PLAN TO CLEAR CAR LINE TO TYNGSBORO

People residing between Stevens corner and Woods corner in North Chelmsford will hold a meeting in Mission hall tomorrow evening for the purpose of making plans for a "dis-out" Saturday and Sunday in an endeavor to open the electric car line between the North village and Tyngsboro. The residents of Tyngsboro held a meeting last evening and made arrangements for the cleaning up of their end of the line and plans are now being made for a big army of shovels to tackle the job Saturday and it is necessary to continue the work on Sunday. The officials of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Co. will furnish a plow and a gang of men and it is hoped that that section of the car line will be cleared so that electric car traffic, which has been suspended for a couple of months, will be resumed in the early part of next week.

THEIR SILVER WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Gervais of North Chelmsford observed the 25th anniversary of their marriage at their home Saturday night, the affair being attended by their six children and a large number of friends and relatives. The couple were the recipients of numerous gifts and in the course of the evening luncheon was served and a varied entertainment program was given.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

by Olive Roberts Barton.

The Disconcerted Duck
"Quack! Quack! Quack!" That sound came from a swamp beside the road in Topsy-Turvy Land, where Nancy and Nick were trotting along happily, looking for Jacko. It was a sorrowful, sad quack, and instantly the twins stopped, anxious to help anything in trouble.
"Where are you?" called Nick, "and what's the matter? What's your name?"
"I was a duck once. I don't know what I am now. Come to look," came the answer.
"Why, you're still a duck!" exclaimed

"I was a duck once, I don't know what I am now," came the answer. Nick, peering through the weeds. "Only it. So one day when the Fairy Queen visited the barnyard and asked if we were all happy, I said I wasn't, and told her why."
"Well," said she, "I can fix that, only you'll have to live in Topsy-Turvy Land. You can't stay here any more. People wouldn't know what kind of a bird you were!"
"Just give me what I want," I said, "and I'll live anywhere!"
"So she waved her wand and here I came with my new tail feathers! And now I'm not only ugly, but I have no friends and I miss the grubs under the wood pile."

Nancy took a pair of sharp, shiny scissors from her pocket and held them out. "Perhaps I can cut your tail off," she said.
"Oh, will you?" exclaimed the duck, gratefully. And what happened then? It tell you tomorrow.

If the engine is properly oiled and cared for it will last a great many years, and in the same way if the human mechanism is properly looked after it will last the allotted three score and ten years. The human system must be a laboratory for the constant manufacture of rich, red blood, and the blood depends upon the stomach. After many years of study in the active practice of medicine, Dr. Pierce found that when the stomach was out of order, the blood impure and there were symptoms of general break-down, a tonic made of the alternative extracts of certain herbs and roots was the best corrective.

This too called: Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. For over half of a century this tonic and alternative has been more largely sold than any other blood medicine or nerve tonic.

For those who are weakened by the after effects of grip or a bad cold or cough during the winter, nothing will increase the number of red blood corpuscles and eradicate poison from the blood so quickly as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is sold by almost every druggist in the land in tablets or liquid. Send 10c for trial package of the tablets. Write for free medical advice to Dr. Pierce's Invalid Hotel, in Buffalo, N. Y.

Cost of Flying Up a Notch

SAN FRANCISCO, March 3.—The cost of flying went up a notch here today. Companies engaged in commercial aviation published a tariff increasing the price of 10 minute "sight seeing" flights 25 per cent to $12.50, and fixing the price for the same period of "stunt" flying at $20. Increased cost of airplane parts, operation and upkeep was given as the reason.

VICK'S VAPORUB

offers a new way to treat croup and cold troubles

THE OLD WAY

Treatment by internal dosing, which does not reach direct to the affected parts and which frequently does derange the digestion.

DIRECTIONS FOR THE USE OF VICKS

Vapors Important.—For diseases of the respiratory organs, such as colds, a large part of the value of Vicks lies in its vaporizing qualities. Therefore, whenever Vicks is applied over the throat and chest, care should be taken to leave the clothing loose around the neck and the bed clothes arranged in the form of a funnel, so that the vapors arising may be freely inhaled.

Hot Wet Cloths.—In cases of very severe colds, sore throat, coughs, incipient pneumonia, etc., hot, wet towels should be applied over the throat and chest to open the pores of the skin before applying Vicks.

Fresh Air.—Plenty of fresh air in the bed room is the best way to prevent colds and lung troubles. Fresh air does not cause colds; it strengthens the lungs, enabling the system to throw off colds.

Asthma.—Vicks is not a "cure" for asthma—so far as we know, there is no cure. In many cases, however, Vicks does give relief. Rub it well over the spinal column, from the neck to the hips to relieve the nervous tension. Then apply freely over throat and chest at bed time and cover with hot flannels. Renew frequently and always have the covers loose, so that the vapors may be freely inhaled. Also melt Vicks in a spoon and inhale the vapors and apply a little up the nostrils.

Bronchitis, Sore Throat, Colds in the Chest.—If a severe case, first apply hot, wet towels over the throat and chest. Then rub Vicks in well until the skin is red, spread on thickly and cover with two thicknesses of hot, flannel cloths.

Catarrh, Colds in the Head.—Melt a little Vicks in a spoon and inhale the vapors. Also apply well up the nostrils. There are so many varieties of catarrh that a competent physician should always be consulted. For many forms, however, Vicks is excellent. Dissolve a half teaspoonful of salt in a pint of warm water and snuff up the nostrils night and morning. Then insert Vicks freely up the nostrils as far as possible, snuffing well back into the air passages.

Children's Colds.—Vicks is particularly valuable in treating children's colds, since it is an external treatment, and therefore, does not disturb the delicate digestions of children. The best plan is to keep Vicks constantly on hand and apply freely and often at the first sign of "sniffles."

Growing children require plenty of fresh air and exercise and should be kept in the open as much as possible, even in the winter.

COLDS are simply inflammation or congestion of the mucous membrane or lining of the respiratory organs—air passages and lungs. They should be treated just as surface inflammations, such as Burns or Bruises are treated—that is, the medication should be applied directly to the inflamed parts. Internal medication going to the stomach does not reach directly the affected parts. But medication cannot be applied directly to the air passages and lungs except in the form of vapors that can be inhaled; and, until the discovery of Vick's VapoRub, there was no efficient, economical method of supplying these vapors.

THE NEW WAY

Coughs.—Apply Vicks as directed for Colds in the Chest and Head, and if the cough is very annoying, swallow, every few hours, a small piece the size of a pea.

Croup.—Spasmodic—Rub Vicks freely over chest and throat until the difficult breathing is relieved. One application is usually enough. To prevent croup during the night, give a good application over the throat and chest at bed time and cover with hot, flannel cloths.

Influenza.—In spite of the epidemic last winter, very little is known of this disease—even the germ causing it is not yet definitely located and no specific for influenza so far as known has been discovered. In all cases a physician should be called promptly.

To Avoid Influenza.—Influenza is a spit-borne disease, and when inhaled the germs attack the mucous membrane, or lining of the air passages. Even this is not absolutely certain, but it is agreed by most authorities that keeping the system in good condition and the air passages stimulated and free from colds is the best way to avoid the disease.

Melting a little Vicks in a spoon night and morning and inhaling the vapors, and applying well up the nostrils several times a day, particularly when in crowds, is recommended.

Pneumonia.—(1) Send for your physician at the first sign of pneumonia. (2) Immediately begin the use of Vicks as an external application. For pneumonia, Vicks is applied somewhat as directed for Deep Chest Colds—for full directions see the Directions Folder.

Tonsillitis.—Apply as directed for Sore Throat.

Whooping Cough.—This is a self-limited disease, running a course which varies from a few weeks to several months. There is no known specific. Vicks is of value in easing the cough paroxysms, and thus lessening their weakening effect on the system. Rub Vicks well over the spinal column, from the neck to the hips, to relieve the nervous tension. Then apply over throat and chest, covering with hot flannels.

Vicks is Not Meant to Replace the Physician.—At the first symptoms of a serious illness, such as pneumonia, a physician should always be called. Many other troubles, such as chronic catarrh or continued headache, call for the diagnosis of a good doctor.

Vicks Acts Both Externally and Internally

VICK'S VAPORUB is the discovery of a North Carolina druggist, L. Richardson, who found a way to combine the standard, time-tested remedies—Menthol, Camphor, Turpentine, Eucalyptus, Thyme, Juniper, etc.—in salve form, so that when Vicks is applied to the body, these ingredients are vaporized by the body heat.

INTERNALLY, these vapors, inhaled with each breath all night long, carry the medication direct to the air passages and lungs.

EXTERNALLY, Vicks is absorbed through and stimulates the skin, attracting the blood to the affected parts and aiding the vapors inhaled to relieve the inflammation or congestion.

How the Use of Vicks Has Grown

Starting with the customers of Mr. Richardson's retail drug store, the use of Vicks has increased county by county, state by state, until now more than 17 million jars are used annually—practically one jar for every family in the United States—and this in spite of the fact that Vicks is still a new treatment to many people in the North and West. Once used, Vicks is a friend for life—it is so easily applied—so quick in its results.

well covered with water and the colder the water the better.

For fresh fried potatoes one may pare the vegetables, slice into cold salted water and let stand for 30 minutes. Then drain and fry. This cold water treatment is very effective and lessens the temptation to buy new potatoes.

Menu for Tomorrow

Breakfast—Orange juice, French toast, coffee.

Luncheon—Corn-meal bunny, pickles.

Scotch shortbread, tea.

My Own Recipes

If Brussels sprouts are a bit steep, substitute creamed onions. Select tiny ones, not because they taste better, but because they look nicer. A cook needs to think of food from all angles. Nourishment, combination of flavors and looks. As chicken is a mild meat, the vegetable needs to be of decided flavor.

CORN-MEAL BUNNY

1½ cups hot corn-meal mush
¼ cup milk
1 cup cheese cut in small pieces
2 hard-boiled eggs
1 tablespoon butter
1 teaspoon salt
Paprika
Toasted triangles
Add salt to mush when cooking. Fry eggs and add cheese, butter, eggs and milk to mush. Pour over hot toast and add a dash of paprika.

SCOTCH SHORTBREAD

4 cups flour
2 cups butter
2-3 cup powdered sugar
½ teaspoon baking powder
Sift baking powder with flour. Rub butter and sugar together until thoroughly blended. Add flour slowly, working it in with the hands. Pack about ½-inch deep in a shallow pan, prick with fork and bake in a moderate oven until a light brown. Remove from oven and sprinkle with pulverized

1 4-pound chicken
1½ cups stale bread crumbs
4 tablespoons melted butter
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
Dress, clean and stuff the chicken. Rub with salt and pepper. Rub the breast and legs with butter and dredge with flour. Pour boiling water in the roasting pan and roast 1 hour. Then remove the cover and let chicken brown. Make a gravy with the juice in the pan. If a moist stuffing is liked, a little hot water may be added to the bread crumbs with the butter. It will take about 1 hour and 10 minutes to roast a four-pound chicken.

DWARF FRUIT TREES IN SMALL GARDENS

At this time of the year, with occasional warm days heralding true spring weather, the fascination of garden planning has new zest. One possibility in such planning, which has not often been taken advantage of, is that of fruit growing in small gardens. Ordinary fruit trees are associated with large orchards, but large space is not a necessary adjunct, according to garden experts.

Food With Less Care

The present state of perfection to which dwarf trees of practically all standard varieties of pear, apple and cherry have been brought makes it possible for a gardener of small scale to add to his food supply without overcrowding the space, obstructing dwarf fruit trees will not be as great as that needed by large trees, and there will be no waste or oversupply.

Other fruits which may be added, though not strictly in the dwarf class, are the quince and the sour cherry trees, both of which are low growing, hardy and productive.

Fruitful Hedges

Grapes, too, make a good porch trellis, when space is available for an arbor. A high fence or back porch may be used as trellis for blackberry plants. In a decorative border, a few clumps of the brilliant red giant rhubarb will not look out of place. As for hedges which will be both decorative and highly productive, no plants of a useful variety will be more satisfactory than raspberries, gooseberries and currants. They are hardy and will take little care, and will supply ample fruit for each season.

MEETING OF O.M.I.

CADET OFFICERS

In the O.M.I. Cadet armory last night the first meeting of the Officers' association was held with a large number of the members present. The discussion proved to be very lively throughout the evening. Rev. Denis A. Sullivan, O.M.I., and Francis Garahan addressed the boys in an interesting and advising manner.

The officers chosen for the year 1920 are: Alfred Burns, president; Lester Robinson, vice-president; Ray Crowley, secretary; Herbert McQuade, treasurer; John O'Brien, Frank Burns, and William Dooley, on the board of directors. The officers plan a ladies' night the first Tuesday after Lent and the following were appointed to make preparations: John O'Brien, Samuel O'Neill and Frank Bullis.

WORLD FAMOUS MOULIN REDET TO BE REMOVED

PARIS, Feb. 23.—The world famous Moulin Redet, one of the two remaining windmills which for centuries have crowned the Montmartre, is to be removed to make room for the construction of new houses. As this will inevitably ruin the picturesque spot from the artists point of view, the painters are in despair and lovers of old Paris are endeavoring to get the authorities to consent to the mill being moved to another site instead of being pulled down.

In the seventeenth century, the hill side and top of Montmartre were covered with windmills. The number finally dwindled to two, the Moulin de la Galette and the Moulin Redet. For many generations the artists of all countries have sought out the Montmartre for the purpose of reproducing these mills on canvas. The section was a favorite one with American tourists and artists.

NO ARRESTS FOR MURDER OF AMERICANS

CONSTANTINOPLE, Monday, March 1.—All Americans in Aintab, where disorders occurred early in February, were safe on Feb. 14, according to a courier who has arrived here from Aintab. The situation in Aintab has become quiet, and Armenians and Moslems have retired to their respective quarters. Moslems in the city have refused to sell supplies to Christians. Roads leading to Aintab are infested with bandits.

The American commission for relief in the Near East, has re-established communication with Marash and is sending in supplies. No arrests have as yet been made as a result of the murder of James Perry and Frank Johnson, two American Y.M.C.A. men, near Aintab on Feb. 24.

DAYLIGHT SAVING BILL

Local Opinion More or Less Divided—Agricultural Society Opposed

Interest in the eight bills now pending before the legislature in favor of daylight saving local agitation and opinion is beginning to assume definite proportions both for and against the plan.

The chamber of commerce only recently sent out to its 1200 members a memorandum on the daylight saving plan, containing arguments for and against, and asking for an affirmative or negative reply. Those individuals whose opinions would generally be considered of any weight on public topics were also requested to offer any suggestions or elucidation of their ideas on the plan. Up to noon today only four or five hundred replies had been received at the chamber of commerce rooms, but before night a considerable portion of the total members were expected to be heard from.

The general opposition comes from the farmers, although there are some who claim that if people want to save daylight they should educate themselves to rise earlier in the morning without changing the time. Mr. Howard Foster, representing the North Middlesex Agricultural society, stated that, if enacted, the bill would be an injustice to the farmers. "Let those people who want daylight saving have it," he said, "but do not change the time. If this state has daylight saving and other states do not have it, then affairs will be in a very undesirable condition."

"If the farmers feel that they would benefit from any such institution, let the executives instruct their employees on a certain date that work will start earlier and oblige them to follow that rule. The farmers throughout the state know that daylight saving interferes with their work, saying mainly that in the afternoon they would lose very much time ideal for farming, because the working day would end for employees very early."

Mr. Foster's opinion may be taken as prevailing among all the members of the Agricultural society, who manage farms in Acton, Billerica, Chemsford, Dracut, Dunstable, Groton, Reading, North Reading, Peppercorn, Willington, Tewksbury, Tyngsboro and Westford.

Other points brought out by the chamber of commerce as arguments against the plan, that "the national daylight saving plan was defeated by congress," showing that there was a popular aversion to the plan, and that mothers complain that their children will not retire during daylight and if they do they do not sleep; that it will create confusion between communities and states without the operation of a national law."

Agent Brown of the Boston & Maine railroad, when asked in regard to the daylight saving plan among the B. & M. employees stated that no effort had been taken as yet to ascertain their general opinion. He stated, however, that he himself was heartily in favor of the proposition. Another official of the Boston & Maine at the depot stated that it was of no use to express an opinion because we have to take what we get from the legislature.

Manager Thomas C. Lees of the street railway company, declared that there had been a canvass made among the employees at the car barns, the power station and other departments, but that the motormen and conductors had not been approached upon the subject as yet. Those who answered to this question were generally in favor of the daylight saving plan. Mr. Lees stated, however, that there might be some opposition among the motormen and conductors, and that their opinions would be solicited very soon.

Superintendent of Schools Hugh J. Molloy, when asked as to the prevailing opinion among school authorities in regard to the light saving, said that he had no means of knowing at present, but that his own personal opinion was in favor, "very, very decidedly."

The points suggested by the chamber of commerce in favor of the daylight saving bills are "that accidents are less liable to happen during natural light; that it gives added recreation and affords means of more sunlight hours after the daily toll; that it aids home gardens, giving an opportunity to work in the garden, so reducing the cost of living; that it makes for economy in fuel by reducing the amount of artificial light produced by vast amounts of coal."

Anarchists Attack Milan Factories and Compel Continuation of Strike

MILAN, March 2.—In compliance with orders from socialist leaders, workers who have been on strike attempted to resume work yesterday, but anarchist groups attacked factories, the tramway and stores, and compelled a continuation of the strike.

Radicals seized a number of military forces. An attack on the labor exchange by anarchists was repulsed by the troops.

A number of Lowell nurses and doctors were present at an informal conference conducted under the auspices of the state board of health in the aldermanic chamber at city hall late yesterday afternoon for the purpose of discussing methods of checking the spread of social disease. May or Perry D. Thompson presided and those present included Dr. Charles E. Simpson, state health officer for this district; Dr. Pfeiffer and Dr. Streeter, also of the state department; Dr. Edith Lakeman, Charles Clark, Miss Emily Skilton of the local police department and representatives of various social welfare organizations.

tempted to avoid striking him by turning sharply to the left. His machine was traveling about 7 miles an hour at the time. In conclusion Judge Pickman finds that Carter's death was not caused or contributed to by the criminal negligence of Burns or any other person.

Reds the Bumpers

Because they "rode the bumpers" on a Boston and Maine passenger train from Manchester, N. H., to Lowell last evening, Camille Marchand and Bernard Green of Marlboro, were fined $5 each. The charge against them was "evading the payment of railroad fare" and both pleaded guilty.

Both told Judge Enright that they had been working in the Maine woods for the past several weeks, and being stranded in Manchester last night had attempted to secure free transportation to the Hub, where they hoped to secure positions.

Cruelty to Animals

Convicted of cruelty to animals—in this instance hens—George Tourneaux, a market street store keeper, was fined $10. Agent Richardson of the Humane society testified that Tourneaux had kept a crate of hens for sale near the entrance of his establishment, and that the hens, crowded together, were not properly sheltered from the cold and storm of the past few days. He had warned Tourneaux to take the hens inside, he said, but the latter had not done so.

Liquor Case Continued

Joseph Silva and Peter Spanos, two Moody street storekeepers charged with the illegal sale and keeping of liquor, were called on continuance and the case against them re-commenced until Saturday to allow Judge Enright to decide upon the merits of a brief submitted by their attorney, George Toye, when the case was first heard.

It will be remembered that at the first hearing of the case last week Patrolman Spillane testified that he visited the stores of the two defendants and bought Jamaica ginger and tonic "as a beverage." He admitted under cross-examination that he didn't intend to drink the mixture.

Mr. Toye contended that as the "Jakey" was not actually purchased for beverage purposes, the sellers were not guilty of the illegal sale of liquor, even though they believed that it was to be used as a beverage and that they were breaking the law in selling it for this purpose. He was given a week by Judge Enright in which to file a brief in support of this contention, which he did.

Police officials and the police force in general are considerably interested in the outcome of the case, for should Mr. Toye win his point it will make it very difficult for policemen to secure convictions against storekeepers in the "jakey" business, unless the police are willing to sample the "evidence" themselves.

Other Offenders

Accused of selling a horse unit for use, Edward A. Kemp of Chemsford had his case continued for hearing March 10.

For drunkenness, Anthony Clements drew down 30 days in jail. He didn't say where he got "it."

Local Coal Situation

times during the past two months, but today they can measure their supply ahead for a week or two in most instances, and even longer in a few cases. But, the smaller plants, relying on local dealers for their supply, are only one jump ahead of an exhausted supply.

There are approximately 35 cars of soft coal in the Boston & Maine yards today, with none expected before tomorrow. These 35 cars represent about 1450 tons and Lowell burns 1000 tons of bituminous fuel every day, as a rough estimate. In fact, it is very possible that the tonnage will exceed this figure.

Herbert W. Horne said today that there is no impending shortage of hard coal, however. There is sufficient hard coal in the city to take care of all domestic needs and delivery will be made immediately in instances where private trucks or sleds are sent to the yards to cart it away. When this is not possible, the best the local dealers can do is to promise delivery at some future date, usually two weeks hence. Delivery under the present conditions of travel is very slow and trucks designed to carry three tons are not loaded with more than two, to allow the driver to get to his destination.

The Boston & Maine is having hard work to get enough coal for its own consumption and three shifting engines were rendered useless for several hours this forenoon until coal could be brought to them from cars frozen in on closed sidings.

THE PRICE OF COAL

Not only will the recent 50-cent-per-ton advance in the price of hard coal in Lowell continue during the days of hard travelling and difficult delivery, but it will not be taken off when good weather comes, in the opinion of local dealers. Moreover, it is practically certain that another increase will go into effect in the spring, when retailers expect a substantial increase in wholesale prices.

The future increase, if it depends wholly upon the amount of the wholesale advance, will not be very material based on the price of each ton delivered to a household, but should it be accompanied by increased freight rates on the railroads, the consumer is very liable to be called upon to pay at least 10 more per ton than at the present time.

Local coal dealers do not look for another winter as severe as this one for some time, but they feel that even a season much more open than this one will disrupt coal traffic and cause a shortage in every succeeding year until the railroads purchase new rolling stock.

PREDICT GOOD CROPS IN FRANCE

PARIS, March 2.—(French wireless service)—Good crop prospects throughout France are reported by the Journal Officiel, which states that the condition of the tilled fields was as good in February as it was a year ago. The 1920 winter wheat crop is forecast as likely to be about the same as in 1919, while some improvement in the barley and rice harvests, is expected.

CITY WAGES COMPARED WITH CORPORATIONS

Laborers employed by the city of Lowell are receiving more pay than the same class of help employed by most private corporations in this city, according to figures made available today at city hall.

The petition of the laborers for a $5 per day wage has led to the compilation of a table showing what private firms are paying their laborers, and the result is interesting. The Aberthaw Construction Co., employing a large number of laborers, pays 50 cents an hour, or $4 per day for an eight-hour day. Burton H. Wiggin pays 40 to 45 cents an hour or from $3.20 to $3.60 per day. The average wage of laborers employed by the local mills runs from 42 to 45 cents an hour or from $3.40 to $3.15 per day. The street department men at present get $1.05 per day and are asking for $1.25.

TRIAL MARRIAGE CONTRACT RESULTS IN CONVICTION OF FORMER SULTAN

PHOENIX, Ariz., March 3.—A trial marriage contract entered into in England by a soldier and artist's model resulted yesterday in the conviction in federal court here of Henry O'Brien, former British soldier, on the charge of bringing to the United States Miss Vera Mori, for immoral purposes.

The girl testified that she met O'Brien in London and that he had asked her to marry him. "I said I would give him six months' trial," she said. "I promised to marry him if I liked him well enough at the end of that time."

ISABEL GETS TWINKLER

Frank Isabel is building up his Wichita ball club. The bald-headed eagle, as he is known around the Western league circuit, has signed a promising infielder by the name of Russell McMullan. The youngster played with Sioux City, the latter part of last season.

TACOMA FANS GIVE

Tacoma, Washington, is finding no trouble in raising the $1000 to support a team in the new Pacific International league. The ball club will be maintained as an advertisement to the city and not as a money-making proposition.
